Publishers' Weekly

THE AMERICAN

BOOK TRADE JOURNAL

WITH WHICH IS INCORPORATED

The American Literary Gazette and Publishers' Circular.

[ESTABLISHED 1852.]

Entered at the Post-Office at New York, N. Y., as second-class matter.

VOL. LXIII., No. 5. NEW YORK, January 31, 1903. WHOLE No. 1618

TO THE MEN WHO SELL BOOKS

Before we published the

LETTERS from a SELF-MADE MERCHANT to his SON

advance orders were solicited from the booksellers of the country. It was a "first" book by an author unknown to the trade. We did not try to force the book on the buyers, but asked each bookseller to read as much of the book as he had time to read and order on his own judgment. The result was advance orders for 10,000 copies before the book went to press.

THE BOOKSELLER BELIEVED IN THE BOOK.

The tremendous sale since its publication has justified the confidence of the booksellers. They are back of the Merchants' Letters. That is one of the three reasons why the book is selling so largely.

Another reason is that the reading public is getting back of it and its readers are advertising it by word of mouth, which is the best thing that can happen to a book.

The third reason is to be found in the book itself. It is the most humorous book of the year and contains more sense than any book of modern times.

Can we help you in any way in pushing the book locally?
We have good advertising facilities for that purpose.

WEEKLY RECORD OF NEW PUBLICATIONS.

☞ The prices of net books published under the rules of the American Publishers' Association are preceded in this list by a double asterisk , and the word net follows the price. The prices of fiction (not net) published under the rules are preceded by a dagger †. The prices of net books not covered by the rules, whether published by members of the American Publishers' Association or not, are preceded by a single asterisk, and the word net follows the price. ☜

The abbreviations are usually self-explanatory. c. after the date indicates that the book is copyrighted; if the copyright date differs from the imprint date, the year of copyright is added. Books of foreign origin of which the edition (annotated, illustrated, etc.) is entered as copyright, are marked c. ed.; translations, c. tr.; n. p., in place of price, indicates that the publisher makes no price, either net or retail, and quotes prices to the trade only upon application.

A colon after initial designates the most usual given name, as: A: Augustus; B: Benjamin; C: Charles; D: David; E: Edward; F: Frederic; G: George; H: Henry; I: Isaac; J: John; L: Louis; N: Nicholas; P: Peter; R: Richard; S: Samuel; T: Thomas; W: William.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

JANUARY 31, 1903.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications

All matter, whether for the reading-matter columns or advertising pages, should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

Books for the "Weekly Record," as well as all information intended for that department, should reach this office by Tuesday morning of each week.

Publishers are requested to furnish title-page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, as it is of the utmost importance that the entries of books be made as promptly and as perfectly as possible. In many cases booksellers depend on the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY solely for their information. The Record of New Publications of the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY is the material of the "American Catalogue" and so forms the basis of trade bibliography in the United States.

"I hold every man a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help and an ornament thereunto."—LORD BACON.

THE BOOKS OF 1902.

THE books of 1902 differ little in quantity and quality from the books of 1901. The year was a full and prosperous one, unmarked by sensational elements or events inside or outside of the book trade. With the nations of the world at peace with one another, there were neither national nor foreign happenings to lend color or bias to the publications of the year. The "booming" of special novels ceased to be an advertising feature, and great sellers were not as plentiful as in 1901. Normal sales were reported all around, the good books of all classes coming in for a fair share of success.

The novel still holds its own as the favorite mental pabulum of the majority. The strain and hurry of American life is not favorable to study or serious reading in leisure moments. We naturally seek rest and recreation, turning to sources of simple enjoyment such as we find in fiction. That we are not always severely critical in our choice of entertainment is testified to in the immense sales credited to the great "sellers" of previous years. In the many novels written and published, however, there is always a remarkably large percentage of good, readable books. In the output of the year the young or unknown author was not noticeably in evidence. The successes of the year, both in fiction and other classes of literature, were achieved generally by our older writers. Scarcely a name of well established fame is missing from the long lists of books to be credited to 1902. Elizabeth Stuart Phelps, Bret Harte, Aldrich, Crawford, Francis Hopkinson Smith, Henry James, William Dean Howells, G. W. Cable, Frank Stockton and Joel Chandler Harris are a few among the numerous favorite American writers whose names appeared on title-pages. It was particularly an American year, books by our own writers far outranking in numbers and in interest those taken from foreign sources.

Again, as in a former year, the second popular class was that of Biography, Correspondence and Memoirs. Although falling behind in figures several other classes of a less literary quality it was so rich in original works as to deserve mention after Fiction. Next to it in important works may be named Description and Travel, showing this year unusually valuable volumes of travel and exploration in all parts of the globe. The new editions of standard works were, as in 1901, most noteworthy. The decrease in religious or theological works, works of history, of political or social science, poetry and the drama, and especially of expensively illustrated works and of the regular gift book, is even more marked than in previous years. Many works on music, the drama and art were issued.

A number of our older and best-loved writers dropped out of the ranks during 1902. We regret to record the death of many typical Americans that time can never replace. Francis Bret Harte has passed away, Frank R. Stockton, Dr. Edward Eggleston, Mrs. Mary Hartwell Catherwood, Mrs. E. D. B. Stoddard, E. L. Godkin, and William Allen Butler, chiefly known to a former generation as the author of "Nothing to Wear." Horace E. Scudder, Prof. Charles K. Adams, and E. S. Brooks are representatives of a strenuous literary activity that will be sadly missed. Mrs. Elizabeth Cady Stanton and T. De Witt Talmage are striking personalities that the public will mourn as silenced forever. Paul Leicester Ford and Frank Norris belonged to the younger group of novelists. Mrs. Annie French Hector, (Mrs. Alexander,) the popular English novelist, has written her last story, as has George Alfred Henty, so dear to the young in heart. Another English novelist, George Douglas Brown—so full of promise—died in the first glow of his fame. A great English historian was lost in Samuel Rawson Gardiner, and two celebrated poets in Aubrey de Vere and Philip James Bailey. The Rev. Joseph Parker has also gone, and Emile Zola, the greatest of French novelists. Prof. Rudolph Virchow, the world-renowned author and pathologist, was claimed by death during the year.

THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY put on record during 1902 through its "Weekly Record of New Publications" 7833 books. Included in this total are the many new editions of standard works and issues of series. These new editions counted 2348 books. The new books counted 5485, making together the total of 7833. While practically we put on record as many new books as in 1901, the total falls short of that year on account of less new editions of fiction—as our table following shows—many of the cheap series having stopped publication, under the new postal rulings. Of these books 3285 were received at this office and 4548 had their titles gathered from copyright entries, from publishers' notes and in various other ways.

The first table which follows gives in classes the figures, approximately, of the book production in this country in 1902, with those of 1901 for comparison.

The second table attempts to show the number of books manufactured in the United States in 1902—first those by American authors, second those by English or other foreign authors made in this country according to the demands of copyright law, and third the books in English imported bound or in sheets; these three classes comprising the book production of the United States in 1902. The first and second classes are almost all copyright books. This table, like the former, scarcely claims to be exactly correct, as it is impossible always to trace the history of a work, from its author to its final publication. The table shows 5210 books by American authors against 4701 of 1901; 1578 books by English or other foreign authors (made here) against 2122 of 1901; and 1045 books, or sheets imported, against 1318 of 1901. The reprints were as usual the largest in Fiction, amounting to 818 books.

FICTION.

Among the numerous good novels from American authors published in 1902, "The Confessions of a Wife," sent out under the admitted pseudonym of "Mary Adams," aroused intense curiosity as to the real name of its author, while its subject and characters created the most violent and opposite criticism. The guesses as to its authorship have been as wide apart as the opinions regarding its merits or demerits, but the majority have settled upon Elizabeth Stuart Phelps, (Mrs. Herbert D. Ward,) as the writer masquerading as "Mary Adams." Her story of "Avery," issued about the same time as "The Confessions of a Wife," lends color to the surmise. The stories are singularly alike in motive, and both bear testimony in many ways of coming from the same pen. Only a trained and experienced writer could possess the cultured style in evidence all through "The Confessions of a Wife." The grace and distinction of style shown in the telling of Edith Wharton's "The Valley of Decision" have also been warmly praised. The story is historical, presenting an interesting phase of Italian politics at the end of the eighteenth century. That thought and research largely entered into the making of the book may be seen on every page. Crawford's "Cecilia," a story of modern Rome and reincarnation, was to the liking of many readers, and is generally voted to be one of his best efforts. "Cecilia" herself is not only charming, but the two heroes are fine specimens of manhood, their ideal friendship for each other being delightful reading.

Two of our veteran writers, Francis Hopkinson Smith and Joel Chandler Harris, drew upon their own personal experience in creating two remarkably readable novels. "The Fortunes of Oliver Horn" carries one back to the South before the Civil War, and afterwards to many amusing scenes in studio life in Bohemian quarters in the New York of forty years ago. Mr. Smith is particularly felicitous in describing the humors of student and boarding-house life. The biographical element in Mr. Harris's "Gabriel Tolliver" is even more strongly marked than in "The Fortunes of Oliver Horn." It is practically the story of the author's own boyhood and manhood during Reconstruction times in the South. Many others of our senior novelists came again before the reading public during the year. Howells gave us a novel of the middle west, called "The Kentons;" Henry James claimed to have returned to an earlier and less involved method of composition in "The Wings of a Dove," while Frank Stockton in "Kate Bonnet"—his last literary effort—was as quaintly funny as his warmest admirers could desire.

Two stories of Virginia, by two women of Virginia, were deservedly awarded the warmest praise. Mary Johnston's "Audrey," rich in poetry and romance, has a historical setting, in a century later, than her former novels. Ellen Glasgow's "The Battlefield," the second of the pair, is a most sympathetic story of southern home life immediately before and during the Civil War. The hero goes through the war in the ranks of the Confederate Army. The picture of the battlefield as seen through his eyes is wonderfully real. "The Virginian," who gives name to Owen Wister's novel—another of the year's successes—is seen chiefly in Wyoming as a ranchman. Mr. Wister's clever sketches of the humorous conditions of life on the plains, gathered in a great measure from his own observations, have been highly appreciated. As bright and dainty as anything he has written is Henry Harland's "The Lady Paramount." Its heroine is an Italian woman of rank, who seeks a cousin in England and becomes the centre of an ingenious love story. "Naughty Nan," one of John Luther Long's sentimental narratives of life and love, is most characteristic. It is nearly as elusively attractive as "Madame Butterfly." "Captain Macklin," a story of modern life and adventure, is related with all the dash and wealth of invention of which Richard Harding Davis is master. "Wanted—a Chaperon" was the last piece of fiction we had from the pen of Paul Leicester Ford. It is unusually fresh and witty. Booth Tarkington is to be credited with "The Two Vanrevels," a bright love story of Indiana in the time of the Mexican War. Paul Laurence Dunbar added greatly to his literary reputation with the pathetic story of "The Sport of the Gods." Hobart C. Chatfield-Taylor wrote "The Crimson Wing," a vivid story of the Franco-German War, with the scene mostly in Alsace, over which passed "the crimson wing" of war. Mary Tappan Wright is the author of "Aliens," which breaks almost unworked ground in its pictures of present social and political conditions at the South. "The Rescue" is from one of our most talented young writers—Anne Douglas Sedgwick—and deals chiefly with heredity. "The Desert and the Sown" is another of Mary Hallock Foote's western stories. Music and its influence is the leading theme in a novel of New England life by Jeannette Lee, entitled "The Son of a Fiddler." Frontier life with its striking incidents is pictured in Hamlin Garland's "The Captain of the Grayhorse Troop." European scenes and history were the inspiration of the following novels by American authors: "Francezka," a tale of France in the days of Louis xv., by Molly Elliot Seawell; "Castle Craneycrow," by G. Barr McCutcheon; "Mr. Whitman," a story of the brigands of southern Italy, by Mrs. Elizabeth Pullen; and "King for a Summer," a story also of brigands and of Corsican life and adventure, by Edgar Pickering; and "Her Serene Highness," by David Graham Phillips, in a "Prisoner of Zenda" vein.

It is not possible in our limited space to name all the novels of the year worthy of mention, so will have to content ourselves with quoting a few others that come readily to memory at the present time, such as "The Diary of a Goose Girl." by Kate Douglas Wiggin; "The Misdemeanors of Nancy," by Eleanor Hoyt; "Hardwicke," by H. E. Rood; "The Courage of Conviction," by T. R. Sullivan; "The Henchman," by Mark Lee Luther; "Vive L'Empereur," by Mary R. S. Andrews; "The Things That Are Cæsar's," "Oldfield," by Nancy Huston Banks; "The Millionairess," by Julian Ralph; "Mrs. Tree," by Laura E. H. Richards; "A Pasteboard Crown," a story of the New York stage, by Clara Morris; "Bayard's Courier," by B. K. Benson; "The Right Princess," by Clara Louise Burnham; "The Maid-at-Arms," by Robert W. Chambers; "The Spenders," by Harry Leon Wilson; "The Strollers," by F. S. Isham; "The Strength of the Weak," by Chauncey C. Hotchkiss; "The Mississippi Bubble," by Emerson Hough; and "To the End of the Trail," by Frank Lewis Mason.

That the short story is still popular is testified to by the many volumes from representative American writers. A number of Frank Stockton's recent stories were gathered under the title of "John Gayther's Garden and the Stories Told Therein;" Joel Chandler Harris sent out short stories in a volume named "The Making of a Statesman;" "A Sea Turn and Other Matters" stands for a collection of short stories comprising practically all that Thomas Bailey Aldrich has written since the publication of his collected works several years ago; another "household name," Bret Harte, is on the title-page of nine stories of vigorous Western life entitled "Openings in the Old Trail;" Rev. Henry Van Dyke's "The Blue Flower" represents nine of his best stories. Other volumes of the year were Mrs. Cruger's "World's People," Josephine Dodge Daskam's "Whom the Gods Destroyed," Richard Harding Davis's "Ranson's Folly," James B. Connolly's "Out of Gloucester," Elizabeth G. Jordan's "Tales of Destiny," and Karl Harriman's "Ann Arbor Tales." Stage life found realistic depiction in Clara Morris's "Stage Confidences" and Ada Patterson's and Victory Bateman's "By the Stage Door." "Alabama Sketches," by S. Minturn Peck, and "On Fortune's Road," by Will Payne, are transcripts of life south and west.

The number of fine editions of standard works were even larger than in former years. In fiction we have chiefly to record several editions of Hawthorne, the Riverside edition of the writings of Bret Harte, a new uniform edition of the works of Francis Marion Crawford, and the novels, stories and sketches of Francis Hopkinson Smith.

Reprints of English novels were abundant and generally of a very good quality. One of the best English novels of the year was A. E. W. Mason's "The Four Feathers," a finely-told story of a young English soldier's redemption of his good name, after having been suspected of cowardice. Elizabeth Godfrey's "The Winding Road," and Mrs. Dudeney's "Spindle and Plough" belong to a class of novels English authors are particularly happy in the writing. Without any strongly defined plot, they include an interest in so many topics of the hour and are written with so much intellectual vigor as to be altogether delightful. Music and gardening are the subtopics here to two interesting love stories. "The Hound of the Baskervilles" is Conan Doyle's contribution to fictitious literature. It is thrilling and startling enough, introducing our old friend Sherlock Holmes. Ernest W. Hornung is becoming a strong rival to Arthur Conan Doyle in the detective story. He is at his best in his two novels of the year—"At Large" and "The Shadow of the Rope." "The Credit of the County" is one of W. E. Norris's capital stories of English country life. The author of "Dodo," E. F. Benson, again castigates the "smart" set of London in "Scarlet and Hyssop." "The Cat's Paw" is one of Mrs. Bertha M. Croker's fascinating stories of Anglo-Indian life. "Love and the Soul Hunters" is the puzzling title of "John Oliver Hobbes's" only novel of 1902. Other novels that claimed attention were T. Quiller-Couch's "The Westcotes," a pathetic, old-fashioned story of an English town during the Napoleonic wars; T. Anstey Guthrie's "A Bayard from Bengal," F. Frankfort Moore's "A Damsel or Two," Justin Huntly McCarthy's "If I Were King," "The Founding of Fortunes," by Jane Barlow, a story of the west coast of Ireland; "The Sea Lady," one of Herbert G. Wells's wildly imaginative stories; Anthony Hope Hawkins's "The Intrusions of Peggy," witty and amusing; S. R. Crockett's romance of Galloway," "The Dark o' the Moon;" and "The Banner of Blue," a story of the disruption period in Scotland; Sir Walter Besant's "No Other Way," J. M. Barrie's "The Little White Bird," Arthur Morrison's "The Hole in the Wall," Marie Corelli's "Temporal Power," Mrs. Clifford's "Margaret Vincent," Ellen Thorneycroft Fowler's "Fuel of Fire," Mrs. Walford's "Charlotte,"

Henry Seton Merriman's "The Vultures," S. Harden Church's "Penruddock of the White Lambs," and "Glengarry School Days," by Ralph Connor. The English short stories are easily named. Jane Barlow's "At the Back of Beyond" is an admirable collection of Irish character sketches. "Moth and Rust, and Other Stories" are from Mary Cholmondeley, the author of "Red Pottage." Then there were "Tales About Temperaments," by "John Oliver Hobbes;" "Donovan Pasha and Some People of Egypt," by Gilbert Parker; "Deep-Sea Plunderings," by Frank T. Bullen; "The Lady of the Barge," by W. W. Jacobs; "The Thousand Eugenias, and Other Stories," by Mrs. Andrew Dean; and "The White Wolf, and Other Fireside Tales," by T. Quiller-Couch.

Fine new editions were published of Jane Austen's works, Kingsley's, Bulwer-Lytton's, Scott's, Smollett's, Trollope's, Lever's and Lover's, and English translations of the romances of Dumas, Paul de Kock, Alphonse Daudet and Theophile Gautier.

The translations of current novels from foreign languages grow less and less. From the Russian there were two more volumes of short stories by Maxime Górky, both realistic and pessimistic. "The Romance of Leonardo da Vinci," by Dimitri Merejkowski, known in the original Russian as "The Resurrection of the Gods," is the second volume of the author's trilogy, entitled "Christ and Anti-Christ," of which the first volume was entitled "The Death of the Gods"; and from Henry Iliowizi came "The Archierey of Samara." From the German is to be noted a translation of Felix Dahn's "Captive of the Roman Eagles;" from the Austrian novelist, Rosegger, "The Earth and the Fullness Thereof," a romance of modern Styria, and from the Dutch "The Deeps of Deliverence," by Frederick Van Eden, one of the most distinguished of living Dutch authors. Valdes's "José" was taken from the Spanish and put into an English dress; the Polish yielded us a historical novel of ancient Egypt called "The Pharaoh and the Priest," by Alexander Glovatski, translated by Jeremiah Curtin; the Hungarian, a romantic tale of Jokai's called "Told by the Death's Head." From the Italian was taken Matilde Serao's "The Conquest of Rome," a tale of modern life and politics in the Italian capital, and from the French "The House of the Combrays," by G. Le Notre, translated by Mrs. Joseph B. Gilder. This novel is a dramatic setting forth of the Royalist intrigues of the Chouans in the early part of the nineteenth century.

BIOGRAPHY, MEMOIRS, CORRESPONDENCE.

This class for some years has taken a lower place numerically in our tables than several others of less literary interest. It touches Fiction so close, however, in popular favor, and is so rich in original works, altogether out of proportion with its figures, that it claims early notice in our review. Our noted men of literary and political fame indulged largely in 1902 in autobiography, their reminiscences covering fifty or even more years in many cases and vivifying in fine literary style the prominent men and events of their past. The venerable Edward Everett Hale gave us "Memories of a Hundred Years," an interesting and condensed history of the nineteenth century; George Sewall Boutwell, for many years Secretary of the U. S. Treasury, in "Reminiscences of Sixty Years in Public Affairs," put into permanent form invaluable details of some of the occurrences of the most strenuous period of our existence as a nation; George Francis Train also turned back to former days in his seventy-fourth year, dictating in a miraculously brief time, the romance and adventure of which he has been the central figure in "My Life in Many States and in Foreign Lands;" "Colonel Alexander K. McClure's Recollections of Half a Century," embraces the story of a celebrated journalist's contact with Lincoln, Jefferson Davis, Grant, Hayes, Arthur, Cleveland and other famous men; the great Brooklyn preacher, pastor and author, the Rev. Theodore L. Cuyler, offers a fascinating volume in his "Recollections of a Long Life," rich in anecdote and reminiscence. Other great Americans were the subjects of loving biographies. Barnard Alderson, in writing his biography of "Andrew Carnegie," had the advantage of the assistance of people who knew Mr. Carnegie best. It may be accepted as the most authentic record yet prepared regarding "the man and his work." "Philip Freneau," the poet of the Revolution, was the hero of a sympathetic monograph by Mary S. Austin. John Newton was equally impartial and frankly admiring in his little book on "Captain John Brown, of Harper's Ferry." "Thoreau, his Home, Friends and Books," besides being the story of his life, is also an estimate of his rank and services as naturalist and author. Annie Russell Marble, from whose careful pen, it is received, has made a fresh and delightful work. The Bishop of Massachusetts wrote a life of Roger Wolcott, the late governor of Massachusetts, one of the most patriotic public servants.

John Burroughs' study of the great American ornithologist, "John James Audubon," was one of the issues of Beacon Biographies; notable additions to the Riverside Biographical Series were William Garrott Brown's "Stephen Arnold Douglas," the first life that has appeared of Douglas since the Civil War, and Henry Dwight Sedgwick's life of "Samuel de Champlain," the great French explorer and colonizer. "General Forrest," the dashing Confederate cavalry officer, was admitted into the Great Commanders' Series, his eventful career being depicted by J. Harvey Mathes. American Men of Letters Series was enriched by fresh biographies embracing new details and new view points of "Henry Wadsworth Longfellow," by Thomas Wentworth Higginson, and of "Nathaniel Hawthorne," by George E. Woodberry. Appleton's Series of Historic Lives received two works from the pen of Reuben Gold Thwaites, one a new telling from new material of the life of "Daniel Boone," the other the story of "Father Marquette," the explorer of the western wilderness.

Daniel Webster excited new interest in writers. He was the subject of two new biographies, one by John Bach McMaster, the other by Samuel W. McCall. His letters were also published from documents owned principally by the New Hampshire Historical Society. Aaron Burr still remains a fertile topic for discussion. We had "The True Aaron Burr," by Charles Burr Todd and "Aaron Burr, his Personal and Political Relations with Jefferson and Hamilton," by Isaac Jenkinson. And to the many, many works on the first Emperor of France were added "Napoleon," by T. E. Watson and "The True Napoleon," by Charles Josselyn.

Works of a biographical or an autobiographical nature relating to the stage and to art generally are to be noted in the following interesting group: Fanny Reed's "Reminiscences, Musical and Other," James H. Stoddart's "Recollections of a Player," Strang's "Players and Plays of the Last Quarter Century," (2 v.), and Marghereta Hamm's "Eminent Actors and their Homes."

Still to be mentioned as coming from American authors are Elisabeth Luther Cary's fine study of "William Morris," as poet, craftsman, socialist; Harry Spurr's "Life and Writings of Alexandre Dumas;" Riley's "The Founder of Mormonism," a psychological study of Joseph Smith, Jr.; Helen M. Winslow's "Literary Boston of To-Day;" D. M. Wilson's "Where American Independence Began;" "A Doffed Coronet," a true story of a life by the author of "The Martyrdom of an Empress;" "Nathan Hale," the ideal patriot, by W. Ordway Partridge, and the "Life of Ulrich Zwingli," the Swiss patriot and reformer, by Samuel Simpson.

Even more elaborate biographies and a greater number came from the other side in reprints and importations. Among the more important from English authors we may mention as leading the list, Dr. James Drummond's "Life and Letters of James Martineau, LL.D." (2 v.). This great English divine and profound thinker and metaphysician could not have fallen into better hands than those of Dr. Drummond, who knew him long and well and thoroughly appreciated his great life work, not only for the Unitarian body of Christians—but for Christianity itself. The "Autobiography of Sir Walter Besant" appeals to a larger class of readers than those who have known him merely through his popular novels. "William Black, Novelist," is a personal testimony to another appreciated novelist, by Sir Wemyss Reid. T Edgar Pemberton wrote charmingly of "Ellen Terry and her Sisters." "Mozart" is the latest volume of the series of Master Musicians, the author being Eustace J. Breakspeare. "Henry V., the Typical Mediæval Hero," written by C. L. Kingsford, and "Edward Plantagenet," by Edward Jenks, were the most recent volumes of Heroes of the Nations Series. "Plato," by D. G. Ritchie, belongs to the World's Epoch-Makers Series, and treats both of Plato's life and the Platonic writings. "Robespierre" is a new portrait based upon fresh research, by the author of "Danton"—Hilaire Belloc. What might be considered a chapter in the life of the great Shakespearean scholar is represented by Mary Cowden Clarke's "Letters to an Enthusiast," written between 1850-1861, and brimming over with details and allusions to London literary and society people. New volumes were added to English Men of Letters of William Hazlitt, John Ruskin, Matthew Arnold, Tennyson, George Eliot, Samuel Richardson and also of four Americans.

Outside of our own literature probably no books of 1902 were so eagerly read as those relating to the South African war. Two of the more important ones were General De Wet's "Three Years' War," and "The Memoir of Paul Kruger." Both works are largely historical, but are limited somewhat to the personal narrative. They are of unusual interest, especially De Wet's story, which has been highly praised by the English press as well as our own. Madame Adam's "The Romance of my Childhood and Youth," introduces the interesting French woman—editor of the Nouvelle Revue and author of long standing. Two French adventuresses are celebrated in "Memoirs of Mme. Du Barri" and Ida Saint-Elme's "Memoirs of a Contemporary." Both are from the French. Most valuable biographical works were shown in limited imported editions, chiefly from English sources which we regret we have not space to enumerate.

LITERARY HISTORY AND MISCELLANY.

The inclusion in this classification of works of reference and the many new editions of standard works, gives it the appearance in numbers of being much richer than it really is. The important literary works from American authors were not very great. William Dean Howells's "Literature and Life," John Burroughs's "Literary Values," and Charles Dudley Warner's "Fashions in Literature," a posthumous collection of essays, are volumes of essays and reminiscences of intrinsic worth. A polished style and profound thought and deep culture are qualities that characterize each. Francis Whiting Halsey's "Our Literary Deluge and Some of Its Deeper Waters" embraces the literary essays of a well-known journalist. "Work and Days" stands for recent short papers contributed to periodicals by Hamilton Wright Mabie.

The literary student is directed to carefully prepared works in literary history and criticism such as Liddell's "Introduction to the Scientific Study of English Poetry," Moody and Lovett's "History of English Literature," Leo Wiener's "Anthology of Russian Literature," Sears's "American Literature in the Colonial and National Periods," E. G. Bourne's "Essays in Historical Criticism," one of the valuable Yale Bicentennial Publications, and T. R. Lounsbury's "Shakespeare and Voltaire." Other works of this class to be enumerated in the history of the year were Ludlow's "Incentives to Life," Bliss Perry's "Study of Prose Fiction," and Lee's "Lost Art of Reading."

From the English we note the second series of Austin Dobson's "Miscellanies," Stopford A. Brooke's "The Poetry of Robert Browning," a thoughtful study of a great poet's best works, and Browne's "A Literary History of Persia." "The Buried Temple" is the latest collection of essays from Maurice Maeterlinck, translated by Alfred Sutro.

The year brought some works of reference of unusual importance. Three volumes are out of "The New International Encyclopædia," edited by Daniel Coit Gilman, Harry Thurston Peck and Frank Moore Colby, who control a staff of experts a "partial list" of whose names occupies eight pages. This thoroughly modern work, abreast of its date in every particular, is scheduled to be contained in 17 volumes. Two more volumes were issued of the "Jewish Encyclopædia," edited by I. Singer, the combined work of more than 400 European and American scholars, a monumental undertaking to be completed in twelve volumes. "The Literature of American History," with Josephus Nelson Larned as chief editor, gives the scope, character and comparative worth of about 4000 books in selected lists. The departments of the history of the United States is divided geographically and chronologically. The Index to the "Trade List Annual," (the collected catalogues of American publishers,) was brought out and is proving a valuable help in bookstores and libraries. Alice B. Kroeger's "Guide to the Study of Reference Books" also deserves attention.

HISTORY.

The book of the year in American history is "A History of the American People," by T. Woodrow Wilson, President of Princeton University. It is a most comprehensive work in five volumes, bringing the picturesque narrative of our story as a nation down to date. With its wealth of pictures it is a unique work in every way. The last volume from the pen of Dr. John Fiske is "New France and New England"—it forms the only remaining link needed to complete the chain of histories of this country, upon which the author had for so many years been engaged. The American History Series was extended by a new volume by J. W. Burgess on "Reconstruction and the Constitution, 1866-1876." James Kendall Homer told in detail "The History of the Louisiana Purchase," presenting new and interesting phases of a most important historical event. "New Amsterdam and its People," by J. H. Innes, is a collection of studies based upon the original records, social and topographical, of the town under Dutch and early English rule. "The Story of the Mormons," from the date of their origin to the year 1901, is a secular and not a religious narrative, by William Alexander Linn. "The Private Soldier Under Washington," by Charles Knowles Bolton, is a vindication of the soldier in the ranks. James Curtis Ballagh wrote "A History of Slavery in Virginia." It was one of the Johns Hopkins University Studies. "Ohio and Her Western Reserve," by Alfred Mathews, "The True History of the American Revolution," by Sydney G. Fisher, "Schley and Santiago," by George E. Graham, and "The Colonials," by Allen French, are all worthy of mention.

From English sources we have to acknowledge Justin McCarthy's "The Reign of Queen Anne" (2 v.). It describes one of the most brilliant periods in English history, with its great soldiers and authors and romantic events. The second volume was published of Andrew Lang's "A History of Scotland from the Roman Occupation." There is still another volume to come of one of the most thoroughly studied works from original documents we have examined. The element of personal character and adventure, which he introduces, with his fascinating manner of telling his story, give a rare charm to the work. Another work with all the alluring qualities of fiction, also from Andrew Lang, is "James VI. and the Gowrie Mystery," offering a solution of one of the problems of Scotch history that no one has ever been able to explain. The 62d and 63d numbers of the Story of the Nations Series belong to 1902. The first was Owen M. Edwards' "Wales," the second William Miller's "Mediæval Rome" from Hildebrand to Clement VIII., 1073-1600. Arthur Conan Doyle's "The War in South Africa," Michael Davitt's "The Boer Fight for Freedom," and Hiley and Hassell's "The Mobile Boer" were contributions to a topic of timely interest. Emerson's "History of the Nineteenth Century," in 3 volumes, gives year by year the happenings of a century. Published simultaneously in Germany, England and the United States in the early part of the year was the first volume of the voluminous "History of the World," edited by Hans F. Helmolt and others. It is offered as a companion to every encyclopedia and as a picture of the development of mankind in the light of modern discovery and research. There will be eight volumes in the work, the first and fourth being the only ones issued so far. "The Unspeakable Scot," a half humorous, half serious and wholly ironical indictment of the Scottish character and temperament, was the production of T. W. H. Crosland, an English journalist. It seems to have a place midway between history and description. We call attention to it, as it was one of the much talked about books of the year. A study of the origins of the French Revolution may be sought in James Mackinnon's "The Growth and Decline of the French Monarchy." Charles Oman's "A History of the Peninsular War" had its first volume, covering 1807 to 1809, sent out. This exhaustive work will embrace an enormous bulk of valuable material that has accumulated since Napier's "Peninsular War" was published some sixty years ago. "The German Empire of To-Day" outlines its formation and development. "Studies in Irish History," by C. Litton Falkiner, sketches striking events and personages in eighteenth century Ireland, and "China and the Powers" is a narrative of the outbreak of 1900, by H. C. Thomson.

DESCRIPTION AND TRAVEL.

New York City was an unusually popular subject with American writers of 1902. Six descriptive works, all of importance and value and rich in pictures of fleeting scenes of the metropolis, call for notice. The most elaborate and expensive work was "Famous Families of New York," by Margherita Hamm (2 v.). While comprised of the life stories of well-known families of the city—the work is also descriptive and historical, and seems to find its most fitting place here with its companion volumes, which are "New York, Old and New" (2 v.), by Rufus Rockwell Wilson, "Annals of Old Manhattan," by Julia M. Colton, "When Old New York was Young," by Charles Hemstreet, "New York Sketches," by Jesse Lynch Williams, and "Social New York Under the Georges," by Esther Singleton. The latter work is most beautiful and interesting, devoting itself to a reproduction of the artistic home adornments of a period of lavish living in old New York. The eruption of Mount Pelée called forth numerous books. The really authentic account appears to be that of George Kennan's "The Tragedy of Pelée." Italy was a country that had fresh attractions for the American traveller, judging from the books it inspired. Katharine Hooker's "Wayfarers in Italy" is genuinely appreciative of Italian scenery, history and art. E. H. and E. W. Blashfield's "Italian Cities" describes a dozen or more places to which will forever cling literary and artistic memories. Théophile Gautier's "Journeys in Italy," charmingly translated from the French by Daniel B. Vermilye, and handsomely illustrated, formed one of the holiday publications and may be cited in this place. Also "Italian Life in Town and Country," by Luigi Villari, an Italian writer, we judge, though the work was published in the copyrighted series—Our European Neighbours—which includes other copyright books, such as L. Higgin's "Spanish Life in Town and Country" and Alfred T. Story's "Swiss Life in Town and Country."

An elaborate work, profusely illustrated, is Carl Lumholtz's "Unknown Mexico." As a record of five years' research in Northwestern Mexico, made under the auspices and support of the American Museum of Natural History and the American Geographical Society, it is unparalleled, being, without doubt, one of the most important additions made to the literature of exploration and discovery on this continent in recent years. Another little known country was visited by Francis H. Nichols, also an American, in the autumn of 1901; he gives the history of his journey in "Through Hidden Shensi." This province—Shensi—of China includes the "Boxers' country," and is peopled by strange inhabitants of whom some account is given. "Glimpses of China and Chinese Homes" naturally follows the former book. Mr. Edward S. Morse, in a short visit to China, made a thorough study of the domestic ways of the people, rapidly sketching in outline their rooms, kitchens and other homely details of Chinese life, which are all included in this work. Bishop Potter's "The East of To-Day and To-Morrow" reflects his impressions gained of the people, their religions, etc., in recent visits to Japan, China, India, Hawaii and the Philippines. Two works on Greece—"In Argolis," by George Horton, and "The Story of Athens," by Howard Crosby Butler—deal with its life, literature and art, and its exquisite scenery. James J. W. G. Walker, in "Ocean to Ocean," gives an account, personal and historical, of Nicaragua and its people. "An American at Oxford" is an interesting impression of life at the great English university by a Harvard man—John Corbin. "On an Irish Jaunting-Car Through Donegal and Connemara" abounds in fun and vivid descriptions culled in a journey made by S. Gamble Bayne. "Vienna and the Viennese," by Maria Horner Lansdale, "Spain and Her People," by Jeremiah Zimmerman, and "Japan and Her People" (2 v.), by Anna C. Hartshorne, were issues of the holiday season, generously illustrated. During the year a new series was begun—"Historic Highways of America," by Archer Butler Hulbert—which has a strong historic interest to Americans. The first volume treated of "Paths of the Mound-Building Indians," the second of "Indian Thoroughfares." Of special attraction to all readers who care for the romance of our merchant and naval ships are Abbot's "American Merchant Ships and Sailors," Marvin's "The American Merchant Marine," and Hill's "Twenty-six Historic Ships."

"All the Russias," by the well-known English journalist, Henry Norman, is the outcome of fifteen years' interest in Russian affairs, culminating in four journeys in European and Asiatic Russia. Part of the same ground is covered in G. F. Wright's "Asiatic Russia." "Across Coveted Lands," by A. H. Savage Landor, author of "China and the Allies," is associated in interest with the foregoing. It is the result of an extraordinary tour through Persia, Beluchistan, and Afghanistan, and has reference to Russia's long-planned designs to reach the Indian Ocean. Still to be named from English writers are: Lady Agnes Grove's "Seventy-one Days' Camping in Morocco," Frances Macnab's "A Ride in Morocco," Campbell's "Siam in the Twentieth Century," the third volume of the scientific results of the Nansen Norwegian North Polar Expedition, 1893-1896, Spender's "Two Winters in Norway," Webber's "Forests of Upper India," Fraser's "The Real Siberia," Paul Fountain's "The Great Mountains and Forests of South America," "Through the Heart of Patagonia," by H. H. Prichard, and "The Path to Rome," by Hilaire Belloc.

POETRY AND THE DRAMA.

There was very little poetry written in 1902, even less than in 1901. Among American poets Will Carleton gathered his poems of recent years together under the title "Songs of Two Centuries." Charming verses for and about children are comprised in James Whitcomb Riley's "The Book of Joyous Children." Robert Bridges ("Droch") sent forth a characteristic volume—"Bramble Brae." Also belonging to the year were Owen Innsley's "Love Songs and Other Poems," James Vila Blake's "Songs" and "Sonnets," Robert Underwood Johnson's "Poems," E. S. Martin's "Poems and Verses," and Joseph Crosby Lincoln's "Cape Cod Ballads."

The latest collection of poems of Alfred Austin, England's poet laureate, was entitled "A Tale of True Love and Other Poems." "Ulysses," Stephen Phillips' Homeric drama, found favor both with the reading public and theatre-goers. "Iris," a drama by Arthur Wing Pinero, one of England's popular dramatists, was also brought out in book form. Two of Gabriele d'Annunzio's recent plays were translated and published, namely, "The Dead City" and "Francesca Da Rimini." "The Joy of Living" (Es lebe das leben), Sudermann's masterpiece, was taken from the German by Edith Wharton and made into concise English for the American stage.

ART BOOKS AND WORKS OF ART.

The only real art book of the year from an American source was Timothy Cole's "Old English Masters." Mr. Cole's wonderful technique as an engraver proves him truly a great artist. His reproductions of these masterpieces of English eighteenth century art, it is safe to say, will never find duplication. Original work was displayed in Charles Dana Gibson's "The Social Ladder," and also in Frederic Remington's "Done in the Open," transcripts of wild western life. Finely illustrated books of the Christmas season were Hamilton Wright Mabie's "Under the Trees," Mrs. Alice Morse Earle's "Sun-Dials and Roses of Yesterday," Mary C. Crawford's "The Romance of Old New England Roof-trees," Clara Crawford Perkins's "French Cathedrals and Chateaux," and Frances Clary Morse's "Furniture of the Olden Time," "Stories of Authors' Loves," by Clara E. Laughlin, "Historic Houses of New Jersey," by W. Jay Mills, and "Social Life in the Early Republic," by Anna H. Wharton. That the group possesses, individually, strong literary qualities, the titles indicate.

Works relating to music were quite numerous. "From Greig to Brahms," by Daniel Gregory Mason, was a collection of studies of some modern composers and their art; "Musical Pastels" represents a series of sketches, setting forth certain rare musical events from George Putnam Upton; the same writer prepared a volume on "The Standard Light Operas" and their plots and their music; the second series of "Symphonies and Their Meanings," by Philip H. Goepp, was published; Arthur Elson's "Orchestral Instruments and Their Use" gives a description of each instrument now employed by civilized nations; "The Organ and its Masters," by H. C. Lahee, is an account both of the development of the organ and of celebrated organists; "Music in the History of the Western Church," by E. Dickinson, tells its own story, as does "The Story of the Art of Music," by F. J. Crowest. These are mostly from our own writers. To the German we are indebted for Alfredo Untersteiner's "A Short History of Music" and Lili Lehmann's "How to Sing." "Reminiscences of a Dramatic Critic" comes from a noted Boston critic, Henry Austin Clapp, for many years attached to the Boston Advertiser.

On the art of painting is J. C. Van Dyke's brief monograph on "Italian Painting;" also Charles H. Caffin's "American Masters of Painting." Esther Singleton is the editor of "Famous Paintings," illustrated and described, and Mary Knight Potter in "The Art of the Vatican" gave a brief account of this vast treasure house and its contents.

Illustrated works of merit from various sources, not to go unmentioned, are Le Gallienne's "An Old Country House," illustrated by Elizabeth Shippen Greene; "Pictures of Romance and Wonder," a collection of prints reproducing the more important of Burne-Jones' paintings; "Old English Songs and Dances," decorated by W. Graham Robertson; "William Blake," being all his woodcuts photographically reproduced in facsimile; "The Art of Walter Crane," by Paul G. Konody; "Modern Mural Decoration," by Alfred Lys Baldry; and "William Hogarth," by Henry Austin Dobson.

POLITICAL AND SOCIAL SCIENCE.

Probably the most popular contribution to this department was Andrew Carnegie's "The Empire of Business," which treats in a practical, common-sense method many questions of the hour relating to labor and capital, thrift, business success, trusts, etc. "The Trusts" were considered by many men, on all sides, in a book under that title. Related topics are the subjects of F. A. Cleveland's "Funds and Their Uses," Barnett's "State Banking in the United States Since the Passage of the National Bank Act," and Davis's "Tracts Relating to the Currency of the Massachusetts Bay, 1682-1720."

Social experiments and studies are comprised in the following group: "Americans in Process," a Settlement study, edited by Robert A. Woods; "The Battle with the Slum," by Jacob A. Riis; "The Spirit of the Ghetto," by Hutchins Hapgood; "The Blood of the Nation," a study of the decay of races through the survival of the unfit, by David Starr Jordan; "Human Nature and the Social Order," by Charles Horton Cooley; "The Leaven in a Great City," a book showing the advance in social life among the working people of New York, by Lillian W. Betts; "Prisoners of Russia," a personal study of convict life in Siberia, by Dr. Benjamin Howard; Bishop Potter's "The Citizen in His Relation to the Industrial Situation"—the "Yale Lectures on the Responsibilities of Citizenship;" Madison Peters' "The Jew as a Patriot," and David J. Brewer's "American Citizenship," in the same series.

Suggestive and thoughtful volumes on government are found in Paul S. Reinsch's "Colonial Government," belonging to The Citizen's Library of Economics; in Snow's "The Administration of Dependencies," a study of the federal empire, with special reference to American colonial problems; Wood's "Government and the State;" and "Retrospect and Prospect," studies in international relations, by Captain Mahan.

"West Point in the Early Sixties," by J. P. Farley, and "Life at West Point," by Harry Irving Hancock, are rich in useful and interesting information. Other books that might still be quoted are Bates's "American Navigation," Fernow's "Economics of Forestry," Burton's "Financial Crises," "Labor and Capital," edited by J. J. Peters for Questions of the Day, and "Insurance and Crime," by Alexander Colin Campbell. Wolf von Schierbrand's "Germany, the Welding of a World Power," is the result of his long career as a newspaper correspondent on the Continent, where he had quite unusual opportunities of becoming familiar with the inner workings of the German government. W. T. Stead's "Americanization of the World" was full of suggestion. The many publications of the American Academy of Political and Social Science, of the Johns Hopkins University and the Columbia University embrace most valuable monographs upon all the allied subjects considered under this heading.

RELIGION AND THEOLOGY.

The additions here are less even than in any former year. Dr. Newell Dwight Hillis, the successor of Henry Ward Beecher, wrote inspiringly of "The Quest of Happiness," Dr. Rainsford of "The Reasonableness of Faith." Bishop Spalding sent forth a volume of essays entitled "Religion, Agnosticism and Education." A course of lectures by Newman Smyth is comprised in "Through Science to Faith." Arthur Tappan Pierson discoursed on "The Gordian Knot; or, the Problem Which Baffles Infidelity," Dr. Schenck on "The Ten Commandments," Amory Howe Bradford on "The Ascent of the Soul," E. Everett Keedy on "The Naturalness of Christian Life," Washington Gladden on "Social Salvation," and W. De Witt Hyde on "Jesus' Way." "Eternalism" is a strenuous argument for the pre-existence of the soul. Orlando Jay Smith is the author. "One World at a Time," a contribution to the incentives of life, comes from a Unitarian minister, J. R. Slicer. An interesting record of personal observation is embraced in Ernest Hamlin Abbott's "Religious Life in America."

These are from American authors and divines. From the English were the third series of the Gifford lectures for 1901-1902, by W. James, under the name of "The Varieties of Religious Experiences," Dr. Robert Rainy's "The Ancient Catholic Church," in the International Theological Library, and "The Theology and Ethics of the Hebrews," by Prof. Archibald Duff, in the Semitic Series. Add to these Leighton's "Typical Modern Conceptions of God," Dr. Orr's "Progress of Dogma," and the Rev. Dr. Newbolt's "Priestly Blemishes."

SCIENCE.

The output in Science proper was indeed meagre. The department is chiefly represented by even a greater number of nature books than were published in 1901. Educational works of general interest were almost entirely absent from those grouped here, the large figures in our tables counting for regular text books. We might name under the heading Benjamin Kidd's "Principles of Western Civilization," which the author of "Social Evolution" describes as "the first volume of a system of evolutionary philosophy," James Mark Baldwin's "Fragments in Philosophy and Science," being collected essays and addresses, and John Grier Hibben's "Hegel's Logic," an essay in interpretation. Otherwise the classification is unusually devoid of interest.

BOOK PRODUCTION IN FRANCE IN 1902.

THE number of books published in France during 1902, according to the official record in the Bibliographie de la France, was 12,199, or 854 less than in 1901. The number of musical compositions recorded was 6719, showing an increase of 169 over those of 1900. The number of engravings, lithographs and photographs recorded during the past year show an increase of 65, being 843 in 1902 as against 778 in 1901.

REPORT OF THE REGISTER OF COPYRIGHTS FOR 1902.

THE report of Thorvald Solberg, Register of Copyrights, on the copyright business and the work of the Copyright Office for the fiscal year from July 1, 1901, to June 30, 1902, inclusive, appended to the report of the Librarian of Congress, presents the following facts:

RECEIPTS.

The gross receipts during the year were $68,405.08. A balance of $1250.19, representing trust funds and unfinished business, was on hand July 1, 1901, making a total of $69,655.27 to be accounted for. Of this amount $3752.37 was refunded, having been sent to the Copyright Office as excess fees, or as fees for articles not registerable, leaving a net balance of $65,902.90. The balance carried over July 1, 1902, was $1217.40, (representing trust funds, $915.91, and unfinished business since July 1, 1897, $301.49,) leaving for fees applied during the fiscal year 1901-2 $64,685.50. In addition $1.50 was applied during the year for copyright entries out of the fees received and paid into the Treasury prior to July 1, 1897, making a total of applied fees of $64,687; and $1 was refunded in the same way, making a total refund of $3,753.37, credit being allowed by the Treasury Department for the sum of $2.50 in settlement of the yearly account.

EXPENDITURES.

Of the appropriations made by Congress for salaries for the Copyright Office for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1902, the sum used amounted to $56,714.23, and the expenditure for supplies, stationery, all other articles not designated as "furniture," postage on foreign matter, etc., was $954.40, making a total of $57,668.63, leaving a credit balance when this amount is deducted from the amount of fees earned during the year of $7016.87.

The copyright fees received and paid into the United States Treasury during the last five fiscal years, from July 1, 1897, to June 30, 1902, amount to $307,774,001, while the sum used of the appropriations for salaries during that period was $215,956.26, leaving an excess of fees over appropriations used for service of $91,817.74 for the five years.

In addition to this excess of fees over appropriations for service it should be remembered that two copies of each article, (exclusive of original works of art,) are required to be deposited for the use of the library. This deposit for the fiscal year 1901-2 amounted to 169,726 articles, including books, maps, engravings, musical compositions, photographs, etc., many of them of considerable money value and such as would otherwise have been required to be purchased and paid for by direct appropriation by Congress.

COPYRIGHT ENTRIES.

The total number of entries of titles during the fiscal year was 92,978. Of this number 84,345 were titles of productions of persons citizens or residents of the United States, and 8633 were titles of productions of persons not citizens or residents of the United States. The fees for these entries were: United States, $42,172.50; foreign, $8633, or a total of $50,805.50.

Of the foreign entries 2412 were with certificates and of the United States entries 22,343, or a total of 24,755 certificates, at fees amounting to $12,377.50. In addition, 1692 copies of record were furnished at fees amounting to $846; 533 assignments were recorded and certified at a charge of $636, and search fees charged to the amount of $22.

The number of entries in each class from July 1, 1901, to June 30, 1902, were:

Class A, books, pamphlets, leaflets, and periodical contributions	24,272
Class B, periodicals	21,071
Class C, musical compositions	19,706
Class D, dramatic compositions	1,448
Class E, maps or charts	1,708
Class F, engravings, cuts, or prints	5,999
Class G, chromos or lithographs	2,010

COPYRIGHT DEPOSITS.

The various articles deposited in compliance with the copyright law, which have been receipted for, stamped, credited, indexed and catalogued during the fiscal year amount to 169,726. This is a gain of 7443 over the previous fiscal year.

There has been a steady growth in the number of these deposits during the last five fiscal years, the total deposits being in each year, respectively, 112,805, 120,143, 141,444, 162,283 and 169,726. These deposits for the five years are classified as follows:

Grand total	120,143	141,444	162,283	169,726

The whole collection of articles deposited to complete copyright up to October 1, 1902, and now in the possession of the Copyright

Office, has been gone over and each article counted. The total number of articles is 1,052,906. This is, of course, exclusive of all articles which have been forwarded to the reading room or to any of the other divisions of the library. This grand total includes 114,264 uncredited articles in addition to such uncredited music as may be discovered when the collection of musical compositions, numbering 256,721 pieces, shall have been gone over.

The credited articles consist of the following productions:

Books:
Books bound	134,488
Books unbound, pamphlets	142,287
Leaflets	44,174
		320,949
Periodicals (numbers)		105,620

COPYRIGHT CATALOGUE AND INDEX.

The titles filed for record are carefully indexed, each entry having a card under the name of the proprietor; and books, periodicals, dramatic compositions and maps have, in addition, title or author cards. These index cards number 139,782 for the fiscal year, of which number 6783 are cards for books proper made in the Catalogue Division of the Library of Congress. After having been first used as the copy for the Catalogue of Title Entries required to be printed weekly by act of Congress of March 3, 1891, (Fifty-first Congress, second session, chapter 565,) these cards become part of the permanent indexes of the Copyright Office. The articles deposited during the fiscal year were catalogued and the catalogue printed in four volumes, as follows:

	Pages.
Volume 28, third quarter, 1901, 13 numbers	1,544
Volume 29, fourth quarter, 1901, 13 numbers	1,597
Volume for first quarter, 1902, 13 numbers	1,388
Volume for second quarter, 1902, 13 numbers	1,653
Total	6,182

Sixty-one hundred and eighty-two pages of octavo print in all.

It is very desirable that all copyright registrations should be thoroughly indexed in order that the frequent inquiries received at the office relative to entries made, or supposed to have been made, can be fully and authoritatively answered. The current indexing is fairly complete, the index cards for the fiscal year numbering nearly 140,000, and this thorough indexing dates back to January 1, 1898. Entries from 1870 to 1897, however, numbering nearly one million, are not so adequately indexed, and it is a constant occurrence to receive inquiries as to entries made during this period, which cannot be authoritatively answered, because these entries are at present incompletely indexed. The still earlier entries, from 1790 to 1870, in the record books of the offices of the clerks of the district courts, have no general index, but only imperfect indexes for each volume. It would be a decided gain to the clients of the Copyright Office if all the entries made from 1790 to 1897, inclusive, could be indexed in the same complete and careful way in which the entries made since the latter date have been indexed, and I trust Congress will be willing to grant a sufficient force to enable the undertaking of this work.

COPYRIGHT OFFICE WORK.

The report of the current work makes a satisfactory showing, all remittances having been recorded and acknowledged to October 17, inclusive, the account books of the bookkeeping section written up and posted to October 16 and accounts with Treasury Department settled to September 30, in short all business has been cleared up well towards the middle of October.

As an index to the enormous amount of detail work accomplished by the Copyright Office we quote the following note on copyright business prior to July 1, 1897:

Congress, in the appropriation act for the fiscal year, continued the special force of five persons, (three clerks, a porter and a messenger,) for work on the arrears of Copyright Office business prior to July 1, 1897. The examination and arrangement of the great mass of deposits (consisting of more than 1,000,000 articles) has been continued, and some 40,000 additional uncredited articles have been sifted out, increasing the uncredited articles to a total of 114,264. Of credited articles received prior to July 8, 1870, 3236 books have been shelved and 4454 pamphlets, 100 newspapers, 1073 photographs and 36 prints have been put up in packages. Of articles received between July 8, 1870, and July 1, 1897, and previously credited, 19,668 pamphlets, 5025 blank books, 16,873 prints and chromos, 1101 insurance and other maps, 1408 musical compositions, and 22,362 photographs (66,437 articles in all) have been arranged by year of entry, while the following (83,521 articles) have been arranged by year and copyright number: 48,790 books, 28,219 pamphlets and 6512 photographs. Of the credited dramas, 2202 have been enveloped, indorsed with statement of titles, dates of entry, and copyright numbers, and arranged alphabetically by title. Of the periodicals 27,315 numbers have been alphabetized and bundled and indexed upon 3283 cards, giving title, size and place of publication of each separate periodical.

Of uncredited matter the following have been segregated and placed in packages: 41,016 pamphlets, 825 maps, 613 musical compositions, 6584 engravings, 7079 photographs, and 13,700 newspapers, while 196 books were shelved and 221 dramas enveloped, indorsed and alphabetized—70,013 articles in all; 1398 photographs, 175 maps and charts and 235 engravings, (total, 1808 articles,) have been identified by comparison with records, indexed and credited. Summary: 290,610 articles arranged, 1808 articles credited, 3283 index cards made, 2423 dramas enveloped, indorsed and alphabetized.

COPYRIGHT LEGISLATION.

Regarding the need of further copyright legislation Mr. Solberg says: "In view of the many and diverse interests affected by such legislation, I suggested that it would seem more probable that these would receive the proportionate attention they require if the task of preparing a codified text of the copyright laws were intrusted by Congress to a commission adequately representing the different interests concerned. This recommendation, that a copyright commission be appointed, I beg to urge again upon your attention.

"Such a commission would be able to reconcile conflicting interests and also have the opportunity to formulate a text for a law more nearly on a par with the existing progressive copyright legislation of other countries. No attempt at a general revision of our copyright laws has been made since 1873, but between that date and the present time no less than twenty-nine foreign countries have codified their copyright laws: Austria, 1895; Belgium, 1886; Bolivia, 1879; Brazil, 1898; Canada, 1886; Colombia, 1886; Costa Rica, 1896; Ecuador, 1887; Finland, 1880; Germany, 1901; Guatemala, 1879; Haiti, 1885; Hungary, 1884; Italy, 1882; Japan, 1899; Luxembourg, 1898; Mexico, 1883; Monaco, 1889; New Zealand, 1896; Netherlands, 1881; Norway, 1893; Russia, 1887; Salvador, 1900; South African Republic, 1887; Spain, 1879; Sweden, 1897; Switzerland, 1883; Tunis, 1889, and Venezuela, 1894. On the part of many of these countries careful investigation has been made into the numerous questions involved, and during this period of nearly thirty years few subjects of legislation have received a greater amount of active and widespread attention. But in the two great Engish speaking countries this interest in copyright has had the least effective results. The legislation in both England and the United States has been but partial and admittedly inadequate.

Our law as it stands is not only inadequate by reason of being based on antiquated models and because its modification has not kept pace with the great material development of the last quarter of a century; but it is difficult of interpretation, application, and administration because of textual inconsistencies and contradictions. In justice to the interests of the literary and artistic producers of the United States, and also of foreign countries, the various copyright acts now in force should be welded into one consistent statute, simple in phraseology, broad and liberal in its principles, and framed to secure not only the fullest protection within our own widely extended territory, but the reciprocal international exchange of copyright privileges."

ENGLISH BOOK PRODUCTION IN 1902.

THE annual statistics of the activity of the English publishing trade during the past year, prepared by the London Publishers' Circular, shows that "the total number of books recorded in 1902 is slightly above that of 1900, nearly two hundred below 1899 and 1898, more than five hundred below 1897, just 800 above 1896, and a thousand above 1901; but about five hundred of that 1000 were 'Miscellaneous'—chiefly pamphlets at a few pence each—and about two hundred and fifty were sixpenny fiction. If up in number, the books of 1902 are down in value compared with those of 1901. The number under 'Miscellaneous' is almost the same as in 1898. In Fiction the number is almost the same as in 1898, slightly above 1900 and 1896, but below 1897 and 1899. In six other subjects the increase is not large; in the case of Theology it is partly due to the issue of pious pamphlets and of sermons, and in that of Politics and Trade to publication of political skits and economical tracts. In History and Biography the numbers were almost the same in 1901 and 1902—531, 537; in Medicine precisely the same, 237, which is lower than in 1900. Law books and Educational publications in 1902 show a falling off, the number being lower than in either of the previous six years. In Travel it is almost the same as in 1896, 1897, 1899, 1901, 44 lower than in 1900. Belles Lettres show almost the same number as in 1897, much less than in 1900 and 1901. The number of Year Books is almost the same as in 1897 and 1900. In the Drama and Poetry the number is higher than in 1901, lower than in the five previous years."

The table is as follows:

THE SIX BEST-SELLING BOOKS IN DECEMBER, 1902.

ACCORDING to The Bookman, reports from thirty-two cities in the United States and one from Toronto, the six books that sold best in the order of demand during December last are:

	POINTS.
1. Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch. Hegan. Century Co	210
2. The Blue Flower. Van Dyke. Charles Scribner's Sons	192
3. The Virginian. Wister. Macmillan	186
4. Wanted: a Chaperon. Ford. Dodd, Mead & Co	80
5. An Old Sweetheart of Mine. Riley. Bowen-Merrill Co	65
6. Glengarry School Days. Connor. Revell Co	61

THE BOBBS-MERRILL COMPANY.

THE name of the Bowen-Merrill Company, of Indianapolis, Ind., was changed on the 22d of January to the Bobbs-Merrill Company, with William C. Bobbs, Charles W. Merrill and John J. Curtis as the Board of Directors of the concern, there being no change in the ownership, control or policy of the firm. The change in name simply brings into deserved prominence the name of one of the new men who has given this old firm its prestige as publishers.

The firm was originally organized as a bookselling concern under the style of Samuel Merrill & Co. The firm name since then has been changed a number of times, having been known as Bowen, Stewart & Co., Merrill, Meigs & Co., Merrill, Hubbard & Co., Merrill & Field, Merrill & Co., and, since 1885, The Bowen-Merrill Company, of which at the time it was reorganized S. T. Bowen was president; Charles D. Meigs, Jr., secretary; W. H. Elim, treasurer, and S. Merrill, superintendent. As the older officers retired or died, the younger men who are now in control were admitted to the firm. After Mr. Bowen's retirement from active business life an effort was made to persuade Mr. Bobbs to allow his name to take the place of Mr. Bowen's, but he refused. Another effort was made after Mr. Bowen's death, when the company bought out the interests of the heirs, but still Mr. Bobbs refused. Recently, however, he consented that the change should be made.

NATIONAL INSTITUTE OF ARTS AND LETTERS.

AT the fourth annual meeting of the National Institute of Arts and Letters, held after the usual dinner, on the evening of January 21, William Dean Howells was re-elected president of the institute and Edmund Clarence Stedman, William M. Sloane, James Ford Rhodes, Bronson Howard, John La Farge and Augustus St. Gaudens were elected vice-presidents. James Breck Perkins was re-elected treasurer. Hamilton W. Mabie, having requested to be relieved from further service as secretary, Robert Underwood Johnson was elected to fill that position.

BOOKTRADE ASSOCIATIONS.

AMERICAN PUBLISHERS' ASSOCIATION.

THE following official communication has just been made public:

We beg leave to announce that at the annual meeting of the American Publishers' Association, held January 14th, 1903, the following amendments to the rules were adopted:

I. Article III. was amended as follows:

It is further Agreed by the Members of the Association that they will not themselves offer, nor sell their books to any one who offers, Protected books in combination with a periodical at less than the trade Subscription price of such periodicals plus the NET or Minimum Retail price of the book.

The above amendment was made in view of the many instances where periodicals have been offered in combination with a protected book at the cost of the book or but little more. This created considerable dissatisfaction, and we hope the trade will approve of the above amendment.

II. The following paragraph was added to the plan as Article XII.:

That in making sales and contracts of sales of their books involving future delivery members shall stipulate that such delivery is contingent on the observance by the purchaser of the rules of the Association.

The propriety of this rule is obvious, and its necessity has been made apparent by questions which have recently arisen.

III. The Rule known as Section III. of Article IV., requiring the addition of postage to the Minimum price of Fiction was repealed.

No doubt there are some members of the trade who will regret this action, but it was made necessary by advice of our counsel, who hold that we cannot legally enforce a rule which discriminates against one dealer in favor of another. It must be borne in mind, however, that the annullment of this rule does not permit a dealer to advertise or offer to send copyright works of fiction, (taking a $1.50 novel as an example,) at 95 cents, plus postage 13 cents. This is in violation of the letter and spirit of our plan, and will not be tolerated by the Association.

AMERICAN PUBLISHERS' ASSOCIATION.

THE AMERICAN BOOKSELLERS' ASSOCIATION ON REMOVING JUVENILES FROM NET LIST.

THE following communication, issued from the office of the American Booksellers' Association, explains itself:

To the Members of the Advisory Board of the American Booksellers' Association:

GENTLEMEN: At the request of certain of our members, your Secretary has petitioned the Honorable Board of Directors of the American Publishers' Association to delay action upon the proposed resolution to remove juveniles from the net list and place them on the same list with protected fiction, until an expression on this matter can be received from our Advisory Board.

The following resolution has just been adopted by the Pittsburgh Booksellers' and Stationers' Association and forwarded to this office and filed by your Secretary, with the Publishers' Association:

"Resolved, That it is the sense of the Pittsburgh Booksellers' and Stationers' Association, that all juveniles published by members of the American Publishers' Association should remain at net prices as heretofore, and not be classified with fiction at (28%) discount."

Will you be so good as to write us by return mail, advising us of your judgment and wishes with reference to this matter, to the end that a fair concensus of the opinion or wishes of the bookselling trade may be filed with the Honorable Board of Directors of the American Publishers' Association before they feel constrained to take final action in this matter.

By promptly complying with this request you will greatly serve our organization.

J. W. NICHOLS, Sec'y.

NEW YORK, January 23, 1903.

THE PITTSBURG BOOKSELLERS' AND STATIONERS' ASSOCIATION.

THE gathering of the Pittsburgh Booksellers and Stationers at the Monongahela House, at Pittsburgh, Pa., on the evening of January 20, was the largest and most representative in the history of that association. Nearly every member was present, the notable exceptions being Charles H. Clough, the president, and H. Lee Mason, Sr., both absent on account of illness. Mr. H. Lee Mason, Jr., the first vice-president of the association, acted as chairman.

Among the speakers of the evening was Charles Walton, representing Charles Scribner's Sons, who bore a message of encouragement from the head of his house which was heartily applauded. Mr. Walton, speaking for himself, hoped that in time all books should be put on the net list, so that all who deal in books might reap an adequate return on their investment of money and work.

George A. Olney, of Edward Kimpton & Co., of New York, one of the oldest, both in years and point of service of the travelling men known to the local dealers, told of the thriving conditions of trade everywhere, and of the demand, on all sides, for "young men to bolster up the business."

Rev. Dr. Joseph Horner told of over thirty years in the business, and W. W. Waters, of the Presbyterian Book Store, upheld the honor of the bookselling profession and the good a conscientious salesman could do in the selling of books.

W. Lockwood, president of the Buffalo Stationers' Association, spoke of the possibility of a national organization, and praised the Pittsburgh association for the work it is doing.

Other speakers of the evening were L. E. Waterman, who happily responded to the toast of "The Ladies;" J. F. VanSaum, John Epping, G. E. Alexander, T. McK. Reed, U. H. Myers and H. F. Davis.

Throughout the evening a strong feeling was evinced in favor of the net price system, and every mention of the reform movement was received with ringing applause. After a long discussion of the proposed resolution to put juveniles on the same basis as fiction, the following resolution was passed by a unanimous vote:

Resolved, "That it is the sense of the Pittsburgh Booksellers' and Stationers' Association that all Juveniles published by the American Publishers' Association should remain on the net list as heretofore, and not be classified with Fiction at (28%) discount."

OBITUARY NOTES.

WILHELM JORDAN, the so-called "rhapsodist," a well-known German poet, died at Baden-Baden, January 27. He was born at Intersburg, Prussia, February 8, 1819. He participated in the revolutionary movement of 1848, and was a member of the National Assembly at Frankfort-on-the-Main. Later he broke with the Radicals and was attached to the Imperial Ministry. He wrote about thirty volumes, among them a history of Haiti, and renderings of the Niebelung Saga. About thirty years ago he visited the United States, and gave readings from his reconstruction of the Niebelungen Lied in a number of the larger cities.

ISAAC GEORGE REED died in the Manhattan State Hospital for the Insane, at Ward's Island, New York, January 22. Mr. Reed was born in Philadelphia in 1836, and was the grandson of the man who invented the nib now used on gold pens and for whom Reed Street in Philadelphia is named. He first studied for the ministry, then he studied law and finally adopted literature as his profession. In 1897 he collapsed and since then had been in several sanitariums, sometimes being discharged as cured only to have a relapse of mental trouble. Most of Mr. Reed's work was for New York newspapers, but among his individual published efforts are "Head and Heart Fruit" and "Ode to a Dying Wife," poems, and "The Divine Tramp," "Erring Yet Noble," "From Heaven to New York," "America by an American," "Monogamy and Polygamy," "The Conflict That Came," and "The Queen of New York."

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

METHUEN & Co., London announce a facsimile reprint of the first, second, third and fourth folio editions of Shakespeare's works.

A WRITER in the New York Tribune points out the remarkably close resemblance between the career of Mrs. Ward's "Lady Rose's Daughter" and that of Mlle. Julie de Lespinasse.

THE DODGE PUBLISHING COMPANY, New York, announce new paper editions of Elizabeth Strong Worthington's books "How to Cook Husbands" and "The Gentle Art of Cooking Wives."

COLONEL W. E. MICKLE, a well-known dealer in old and out-of-the-way books in Mobile, Ala., has been elected Adjutant-General and Chief of Staff of the United Confederate Veterans.

LEMCKE & BUECHNER, New York, will bring out in April a monograph on Leonardo da Vinci in the Monographs on Artists. The volume forms No. 7 of the series and contains 128 illustrations.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & Co. have in preparation "The Log of a Cowboy," a story by Andy Adams, who is well known to all those writers of cowboy books who have taken the trouble to visit the cowboy country.

MCCLURE, PHILLIPS & COMPANY are about to publish a new book by Miss M. Imlay Taylor, entitled "The Rebellion of the Princess." It is in her characteristic vein, and deals with adventures in the Russian court at St. Petersburg.

THE remaining copies of A. E. Gallatin's "Aubrey Beardsley as a Designer of Book Plates" have been transferred to the Tonnelè Company, 30 and 32 East Twenty-first Street, New York. In England the book is published by Elkin Mathews.

THE MODERN MEXICO PUBLISHING COMPANY, New York City, has just published a new and revised edition of "The Standard Guide to the City of Mexico and Vicinity," by Robert S. Barrett. This is the third edition of the book in three years.

H. HUNTER ROBINSON, who was for seventeen years with Sampson Low, Marston & Co., Ltd., subsequently having charge of John Lane's branch in New York City, where he made many warm friends, has been appointed manager of the London branch of T. C. & E. C. Jack, the well-known Edinburgh publishers, at 34 Henrietta Street, Covent Garden, W. C.

FUNK & WAGNALLS COMPANY will publish on February 28 a novel of California life during the days of the anti-Chinese labor agitation, entitled "The Socialist and the Prince," by Mrs. Fremont Older. The leader of the workingmen, one of the principal characters in the book, and his political actions, were suggested by the character and career of Dennis Kearney, the sand lot agitator.

WILLIAM S. LORD, Evanston, Ill., will publish in March a volume of essays by Celia Parker Woolley, entitled "The Western Slope." "The Western Slope" is a phrase which designates the afternoon period of life, that of a maturer judgment and reflection, of enlarged sympathies and softened beliefs. Under this caption the writer reviews the general progress of ideas in matters of education, religion and social activity.

HARPER & BROTHERS' first publishing day for 1903 will fall on February 6. On that date they will publish the following books: "The Pride of Tellfair," a novel of middle Western life, by Elmore Elliott Peake, author of "The Darlingtons;" a new edition, completely revised, of John Bigelow's psychological work, "The Mystery of Sleep;" and a new juvenile story by Charles Edward Rich, entitled "The New Boy at Dale."

HENRY HOLT & Co. have in press for immediate publication a handbook on "Money and Banking," by Professor William A. Scott, of the University of Wisconsin. While intended primarily for educational use, it will be serviceable also to the busy general reader who wishes a clear statement in compendious form of the first principles of modern currency. The author aims at absolute fairness in his discussion of the vexed questions connected with the subject.

B. T. BATSFORD, 94 High Holborn, London, have in preparation a catalogue of a very important exhibition of old silver work, recently held at St. James's Court, London. The catalogue will have historical and descriptive notes and an introductory essay dealing with the history of the silversmith's art, the character of the objects illustrated, etc., by J. Starkie Gardner. Samuel Buckley & Co., 100 William Street, New York, are the agents for the work in this country.

JAMES H. WEST CO. 79 Milk Street, Boston, Mass., will publish next week a novel entitled "Loyal Traitors, a Story of Friendship for the Filipinos," by Raymond L. Bridgman, author of "The Master Idea," etc. Throughout the story "the eternal rightfulness" of the Filipino cause is affirmed, and the author shows "every specious plea commonly urged for the course of the American administration to be untenable in the presence of true American principles, whose ultimate triumph is foreshadowed in the prophecy of freedom for the Philippines."

D. APPLETON & Co. have in press in their Literature of the World Series a "History of American Literature," by Professor William

P Trent, who divides his subject into four main parts: "The Colonial Period" (1607-1764), "The Revolutionary Period (1765-1788), "The Formative Period" (1789-1829), and "The Sectional Period" (1830-1865). A brief "Conclusion" sketches the conditions of literature from the close of the Civil War to the present day, but as the work aims at historical impartiality the author does not criticise living authors.

TENNANT & WARD, New York, have acquired the selling agency for America of The Cloister Library, now being issued by J. M. Dent & Co., London. This series comprises selected works by modern and mediæval thinkers, for meditative reading, and is under the general editorship of A. R. Waller. The three volumes thus far published are Sir Arthur Helps' "Thoughts in the Cloister and the Crowd, and Companions of My Solitude," Saint Teresa's "The Way of Perfection," and George Herbert's "The Temple, and a Priest to the Temple."

LITTLE, BROWN & Co. have in preparation a novel of American life in the West entitled "Barbara, a Woman of the West," by John H. Whitson, a new "Hoosier" writer, who has been for years a travelling newspaper correspondent; "The Siege of Youth," a story of the present day, by Frances Charles, the young San Francisco author, whose "In the Country God Forgot" was favorably received a year ago; also, a new story by Anna Chapin Ray, entitled "The Dominant Strain," the central idea of which is the mistake a woman makes who attempts to reform a man after marriage.

THE BAKER & TAYLOR COMPANY will bring out at once an art book entitled "Pictorial Composition and the Critical Judgment of Pictures," by H. R. Poore, whose experience as an artist and instructor of art students fits him admirably for the production of such a work. They have in preparation a book entitled "With the Trees," "untechnical studies for unlearned lovers of nature," by Maud Going, author of "With the Wild Flowers," etc.; also, "My Woodland Inmates," a new animal book by Mrs. Effie Bignell, author of "The Life Story of Two Robins," etc., with decorations by George M. Hood.

LEE & SHEPARD have in preparation a story of the American invasion of the Philippines, entitled "A Blow from Behind," by F. C. Chamberlain, who claims that the worst enemy of the American soldier is not the Filipino, but his countryman who strikes him from behind. They also announce "Social Evolution or Regeneration," by R. C. Douglas; a "Life of Elijah Kellogg," written by a number of his friends, and edited by Professor W. L. Mitchell, of Bowdoin College; also, "The Young Explorers of the Isthmus," by Mr. Stratemeyer, a new volume in the Pan-American Series.

SAMUEL W. GREEN, one of the ablest defenders of the second-class mail matter privileges in this country, has just issued an "Open Letter to Congress," in which he claims to demonstrate that "the second-class matter forced from the mails by the Post-office Department, on which the Third Assistant claims to have increased third-class matter $12,909, has really cost the department more than $10,000,000." The document is interesting reading, and is commended to the attention of all who publish second-class matter. It may be obtained gratis of the author at 326 Pearl Street, New York City.

THE Paris tribunal has just rendered judgment in the suit brought by the publishers of the French magazine, Le Théâtre, against The Theatre, of New York. The result is a victory for the American publication, its French contemporary having failed to obtain satisfaction on any one of the charges contained in the complaint. This suit is curious in the history of the publishing business in the sense that it was an attempt by a foreign firm to prevent an American firm not only from selling its products in France, but with the ulterior object of preventing it from carrying on its business in the United States.

SINCE the death of Charlotte M. Yonge, two years ago, there has developed a steadily increasing demand for her stories, so the publishers report. Whether it is because of a turning from the problem novel and the superstrenuous historical story to the quieter style of our older writers, or whether it is due to renewed interest in an old favorite now gone it is difficult to say; but the fact is that such stories as "The Cunning Woman's Grandson," "Founded on Paper," "The Patriots of Palestine," "The Herd Boy and His Hermit," and "The Making of a Missionary" are selling better now than they did during the several years just preceding her death.

HERBERT B. TURNER & Co., Boston, have just issued a work entitled "Greek and Roman Stoicism and Some of its Disciples," by Dr. Charles H. Stanley Davis, well known to Egyptologists as the editor of Biblia, the official organ of the Egypt and Palestine Exploration Funds, as translator of the "Egyptian Book of the Dead," published by the Putnams some years ago, and author of "A History of Egypt." For several years he has given his spare time to a translation of the Koran from the Arabic, with a commentary drawn from Arabic sources. His new work is a comprehensive survey of the birth and rise of Greek philosophy, its culmination in Stoicism, and the influence of Stoicism upon Christianity.

THOMAS Y. CROWELL & Co. will publish shortly a novel of English middle-class rural life, entitled "From a Thatched Cottage," by Eleanor G. Hayden, author of "Travels Round Our Village." They have in preparation an edition of Shakespeare's works to be entitled the First Folio edition, prepared by Charlotte Porter and Helen A. Clarke, the well-known editors of the Camberwell edition of Browning. This edition goes back to, and reproduces, the famous First Folio text of 1623, the one which gives Shakespeare in the original spelling and punctuation. The text is thus freed from the editorial changes of three centuries, which, however, are indicated by abundant notes. The type is modern and is set by De Vinne.

J. B. LIPPINCOTT COMPANY publish this week the concluding volume of "Stanford's Compendium of Geography and Travel," by G. G. Chisholm, which is devoted to the northwestern part of Europe. The price of this work will hereafter be increased to $5.50 net the volume. They have also just ready the fifth edition of "An Introduction to the Study of Metallurgy," by Sir W. C. Roberts-Austen; the third edition of "Valves and Valve-Gearing," enlarged and revised by George H. Hurst; a "Key" to "Lippincott's Elementary Algebra," by J. Morgan Rawlins; the fourth volume of "International Clinics," the twelfth series; and the third edition of Dr. A. Jacobi's "Therapeutics—Infancy and Childhood." They have in preparation a story by a new writer—Mrs. M. S. Clarke Pelton, who resides near Asheville, N. C. The scene of the story, which will be entitled "A Tar Heel Baron," is laid in North Carolina. The hero is a German gentleman who comes as a stranger into the little settlement.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS will publish shortly a new nature book by Miss Harriet L. Keeler, to be entitled "Our Northern Shrubs and How to Identify Them." This volume will be a companion to the author's "Our Native Trees," and will be of especial help to the amateur and lover of nature who wish to know how to select and arrange shrubs for their home grounds. The volume contains descriptions of 175 native and about 40 naturalized shrubs. There are many photographic plates. At the end of the volume will be glossaries, lists of genera and species, a guide to shrubs, and indices. Mr. Hornung's new novel, "No Hero," will be brought out in March. The scene of the story is laid in Switzerland. The central character is a young Eton boy who has fallen in love with a woman who appears to be an adventuress. The story is told in the words of a friend of the boy's mother, who undertakes to disillusionize him. The gossipy atmosphere of a Swiss hotel furnishes the background.

A. C. ARMSTRONG & SON will publish on February 2 a new edition of "The Expositor's Bible," complete in twenty-five volumes, from the same plates as their forty-nine-volume edition, but sold only in complete sets, and at the extremely low price of $15. The edition is printed on fine laid paper and substantially bound in cloth. Other announcements for next month are a new volume by the author of "Apostolic Optimism," Rev. J. H. Jowett, entitled "Thirsting for the Springs," uniform with "Brooks by the Traveler's Way," prepared by Professor A. T. Robertson, D.D., of Louisville, Ky.; a new, seventh, edition of the late Dr. Broadus's "A Harmony of the Gospels," with new helps for historical study, map of Palestine, comprehensive index and many new features; also, two important theological works—"The Church and the Ministry in the Early Centuries," by Thomas M. Lindsay, D.D., principal of Glasgow College, being the eighteenth series of the Cunningham lectures, one volume; "Biblical and Literary Essays," by the late Professor A. B. Davidson, D.D.

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted" book-trade subscribers are given the privilege of a free advertisement for books out of print, of five nonpareil lines exclusive of address, in any issue except special numbers, to an extent not exceeding 100 lines a year. If more than five lines are sent, the excess is at 10 cents a line, and amount should be inclosed. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, must be paid for at the rate of 10 cents a line.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents a nonpareil line for each insertion. No deduction for repeated matter.

All other small, undisplayed, advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents a nonpareil line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

Parties with whom we have no accounts must pay in advance, otherwise no notice will be taken of their communications.

BOOKS WANTED.

☞ In answering, please state edition, condition, and price, including postage or express charges.

Houses that are willing to deal exclusively on a cash-on-delivery basis will find it to their advantage to put after their firm-name the word [Cash].

☞ Write your wants plainly and on one side of the sheet only. Illegibly-written "wants" will be considered as not having been received. The "Publishers' Weekly" does not hold itself responsible for errors.

It should be understood that the appearance of advertisements in this column, or elsewhere in the "Publishers' Weekly" does not furnish a guarantee of credit. While it is endeavored to safeguard these columns by withdrawing the privilege of their use from advertisers who are not "good pay," booksellers should take the usual precaution, as to advertisers not known to them, that they would take in making sales to any unknown parties.

Harper's February Books

IN THE GARDEN OF CHARITY

BY

BASIL KING

Author of "Let Not Man Put Asunder"

Entirely different from this author's former success. It deals with the people of the rugged Nova Scotian coast. That very ruggedness has developed the character traits of the people portrayed in the novel. Charity Pennland, her soldier-husband, his mock-marriage wife—a charming half-Greek—are the leading figures in the story.

$1.50

THE PRIDE OF TELLFAIR

BY

ELMORE ELLIOTT PEAKE

Author of "The Darlingtons"

A story of northern Illinois. Love, law, politics and gossip of a country town form the framework of a strong love story of a clever young Western lawyer, who manages his love affairs with the same astuteness and ability which he has carried into his profession.

$1.50

SIX TREES

By MARY E. WILKINS FREEMAN

Author of "The Portion of Labor," etc.

In these sketches Mrs. Wilkins Freeman blends the associations of the New England trees with the life of the people depicted, showing how intimately one is bound up with the other. Reverting, as they do, to the scenes of the author's earlier work, these stories are certain of the popularity which was accorded "A New England Nun" and "A Humble Romance."

Illustrated by Broughton. $1.25

THE MYSTERY OF SLEEP

BY

JOHN BIGELOW

Author of "Life of Tilden," etc.

Mr. Bigelow's argument in this interesting volume is that sleep is not merely a restoration of wasted physical energies, but a period in which, and the agency through which, man's nobler self is made receptive for the flow of divine life into the spirit.

New Enlarged Edition

THE NEW BOY AT DALE

BY

CHARLES EDWARD RICH

A book of rare interest for boys and girls. The story is of a boy stolen from his home when very young, his escape from his captor, life in a circus, rescue of a little girl, and his coming to Dale school. His school life is filled with exciting adventures. The book is one which should rank with the stories of Kirk Munroe and James Otis.

Illustrated by Florence Scovel Shinn

Henry Holt & Co.'s

RECENT and FORTHCOMING BOOKS.

BORROWED PLUMES.

By OWEN SEAMAN. 2d Impression.....$1 25

The best parodies since Calverley.

"Capital fooling . . . remarkably clever."—New York Times' Saturday Review.

THE LIGHTNING CONDUCTOR.

Edited by C. N. and A. M. WILLIAMSON. 2d Impression.....$1 50

The Strange Adventures of a Motor Car.

"A novel novel that is an all-around good one—healthy, humorous, clever, simple, and attractive in all its phases."—Brooklyn Eagle.

LORD LEONARD, THE LUCKLESS.

By W. E. NORRIS.....$1 50

In this new novel Mr. Norris returns to the manner of his first successes, "Matrimony" and "No New Thing." The book is in a more serious vein, and impressively tells a story that a less able writer would have been liable to make sensational. Some of the episodes are decidedly tragic, but Mr. Norris's humor does not desert him, and is used in effective contrast.

A SUMMER IN NEW YORK.

By EDWARD W. TOWNSEND. (February.)

With chapter heads and a tail piece by HARRY EDWARDS.

A love story told in letters by the author of "Chimmie Fadden."

The experiences of Alice Wonderley of Ironville at her aunt's. The aunt, who is a bit of a social leader, tries New York in midsummer for variety's sake with several others of her set. The story takes the reader, among other places, to a well-known Hungarian café, Claremont, a roof garden, the Metropolitan Club, the Waldorf, Long Acre Square, the Sheepshead Bay Races, etc.

TIOBA

And Other Tales. By ARTHUR W. COLTON. With a frontispiece by A. B. FROST. (February.)

Mr. Colton is already favorably known for "Delectable Mountains" and "Debatable Land," and his work in The Atlantic, The Century, and elsewhere. This new book is said to contain considerable humor and to present a highly diversified gallery of Americans. Tioba is a mountain, which, paradoxical as it may seem, takes an active part in the opening story.

THE REGENCY OF MARIE DE MEDICI

By ARTHUR P. LORD. With portraits from old paintings. (February.)

MONEY AND BANKING

By Prof. WM. A. SCOTT. (January.)

THE

MASTER of WARLOCK

By GEORGE CARY EGGLESTON, Author of "DOROTHY SOUTH" "CAROLINA CAVALIER"

Six Illustrations by C. D. WILLIAMS Bound in Dark Red Cloth

AGATHA RONALD
From "The MASTER of WARLOCK"

Decorative Cover Rough Edges Gilt Top Price, $1.50

"THE Master of Warlock," Mr. Eggleston's third story in a group, of which his recent very successful "Dorothy South" is the second, deals with the early stages of the Civil War as witnessed from the Southern point of view, and yet without a touch of sectionalism, and thus carries on his delightful and authoritative studies of American conditions in the South. "The Master of Warlock" has an interesting and increasingly strong plot, and is full of purity of sentiment, charm of atmosphere, and stirring doings. One of the typical family feuds of Virginia separates the lovers at first; but, when the hero goes to the war, the heroine undergoes many hardships and adventures to serve him, and nurses him back from death, and they are happily united in the end.

The

CAPTAIN

By CHURCHILL WILLIAMS, Author of J. DEVLIN—BOSS

Four Illustrations by ARTHUR I. KELLER Bound in Dark Red Cloth

"Their men do the fighting, but the women have their part."

Decorative Cover Rough Edges Price, $1.50

"IN this novel Mr. Churchill Williams seems to have repeated his success with his story of city politics, 'J. Devlin — Boss.' The present story is an able romance dealing with life on the eve of the Civil War and during it. Most of the people come from south of Mason-Dixon's line, and we see the struggle from their standpoint and sympathize with their difficulties in taking sides for or against the Union. The great figure of the Captain, who will be at once recognized as General Grant, dominates the whole story, and offers the most striking portrait of that unique figure yet to be found in American fiction."

THE YELLOW VIOLIN. By Mary A. Denison. How a little girl who sold papers in the city found a home in the country.

THE MOTHER GOOSE PAINT BOOK

By J. M. BARNETT.

The greatest novelty of the season. Attached to the cover of this book is a box of paints and brush, all ready for the children to paint the clear, outline pictures which illustrate the Mother Goose rhymes, these old favorites being printed on page opposite the sketch. $1.25

BILLY WHISKERS.

By FRANCES T. MONTGOMERY.

A book of fun for the little ones, telling of the comical experiences of a pet goat.

Six handsome colored plates, fancy cover in bright colors. $1.00.

ANIMAL LIFE IN RHYMES AND JINGLES

By ELIZABETH MAY.

Pictures of various animals in original surroundings, many full-page, each one described in rhymes, telling where they live, how they defend themselves about their habits, homes, where they may be found, how captured, etc.

Handsome colored cover. 4to, $1.25.

A REDMAN OF QUALITY

By EDWARD EVERETT BILLINGS.

A story of a little company who started out to locate a sapphire field in the Rockies; become acquainted with "A Redman of Quality," and through his knowledge of Indian warfare, escape from hostile Indians. Cloth, $1.25.

THE LITTLE WOMAN IN THE SPOUT

By MARY AGNES BYRNE.

A charming story for girls, describing the trials and joys of three little schoolmates—the Little Woman in the Spout being a creature of childish imagination.

Cloth, 60 cents.

IN A CAR OF GOLD

By P. L. GRAY.

A book which will be a rival to "Alice in Wonderland." A mysterious trip which two little maidens took to Mars in a Car of Gold.

Illustrated by Bernard Gutman.

Cloth, $1.00.

ROY AND ROSYROCKS

By MARY AGNES BYRNE.

A fine Christmas story of two orphans who were adopted by a poor Irish woman. They attempt to decorate the humble home and wander away into the city in search of Christmas greens.

Cloth, 60 cents.

A Book of Knowledge and Amusement.

Chicago Record-Herald:
"Every chapter is worth reading on account of its scientific value and rare humor."

New York Times:
"Throughout the volume there are amusing stories, all told with exceeding cleverness. We give the author credit of being a true humorist. Although you may laugh, the lesson of life is taught. The book has scientific and literary merit."

Boston Ideas:
"Sparkling and entertaining throughout."

Chicago Journal:
"Mr. Sutherland is a pleasant surprise. His book on bugs is a refreshing oasis in that vast desert of writings which has to do with science and stubborn facts."

New York Sun:
"Knowledge is so rarely imparted in so pleasant a form as in Harvey Sutherland's 'Book of Bugs.'"

THE BOOK OF BUGS. By Harvey Sutherland.

With numerous illustrations by Frank Verbeck and other artists. It gives interesting accounts of all kinds of bugs, both domestic and foreign; but the larger portion of the work deals with those creatures familiar to all. There are chapters on flies, mosquitoes, fleas, the busy bee, the ingenious spider, foes of clothes and carpets, the aristocrats of the kitchen, and many others, all told in a style full of rare wit and humor, and still teeming with valuable information. Mr. Sutherland, who is fully as much of a scientist as a humorist, tells of how these creatures build their homes, prey upon their neighbors, have mimic battles, go courting in their most shining colors, make slaves of other insects, and do a hundred and one other things of which the average person knows but little. The volume contains forty-two scientific illustrations of bugs. It will make a welcome addition to any library.

Handsomely bound in cloth, unique cover design in gold and silver.

JOHN WILEY & SONS, 43-45 East 19th Street, New York City

Important New Medical Books.

WM. WOOD & CO. - NEW YORK.

The Practitioner's Manual A condensed system of Medical Diagnosis and Treatment. By Charles Warrenne Allen, M.D., Consulting Genito-urinary Surgeon to the City (Charity) Hospital. SECOND EDITION. This may be considered a concise treatise on the differentiation of disease, supplemented by the author with a condensed presentation of the writings and teachings of many eminent authorities, and the newer plans of treatment. Formulæ are abundant throughout. One volume of 855 pages, octavo. Muslin, $6.00 net; half morocco, $7.00 net.

A Manual of Surgery By Wm. Rose, M.B., B.S., F.R.C.S., London, and Albert Carless, M.S., F.R.C.S., London. FIFTH EDITION. Five editions, in as many years, speak more loudly in praise of a work than anything else can. The book is a thorough and practical surgery—at the same time being the smallest complete one published. Octavo, 1227 pages, illustrated by 430 engravings and 29 full-page plates. Price, muslin, $5.00; brown sheep, $5.75.

Theory and Practice of Infant Feeding With Notes on Development By Henry Dwight Chapin, A.M., M.D., Professor of Diseases of Children at the New York Post-Graduate Medical School and Hospital, etc., etc. This book is essentially original in its scope, and practical in its treatment of the subject. It contains a large amount of general useful information which will be of interest to physicians, nurses, sanitarians, health officers and progressive milk dealers. One volume, octavo, 328 pages, including a full index; illustrated by numerous cuts, charts and half-tone engravings. Muslin, $2.25 net.

Food and the Principles of Dietetics By Robert Hutchison, M.D., Edin., M.R.C.P., Assistant Physician to the London Hospital, and to the Hospital for Sick Children. Since its publication in December, 1900, HUTCHISON'S DIETETICS has supplanted in general favor all other works on the subject. The book is full octavo in size, containing 566 pages, illustrated by three colored plates and many wood engravings. Price, muslin binding, $3.00 net.

An Introduction to Dermatology By Norman Walker, M.D., Assistan Physician for Diseases of the Skin to the Roya Edinburgh Infirmary, etc. Diagnosis and therapeutics, the essential points, are treated with exceptional ability and clearness. The colored plates are of unusual beauty and merit. True to life, and much more numerous than in any other text-book on the skin, they add immensely to the value and interest of the work. One volume, octavo, 263 pages, with a frontispiece, 29 plates, mostly chromo-lithographs, and 34 illustrations in the text. Bound in muslin, $3.00 net.

The Surgery of the Rectum By Charles B. Kelsey, A.M., M.D., Late Professor of Pelvic and Abdominal Surgery at the New York Post-Graduate Hospital, etc., etc. SIXTH EDITION. In the sixth edition of this well-known work the author presents the experience of twenty-five years' practice of this important specialty. Some surgery of other pelvic and abdominal organs is necessarily included, as operations upon the rectum frequently involve them. The book has been entirely rewritten, and represents the latest developments of rectal surgery and treatment. While the book contains all recent scientific advances, as well as the writer's personal experience, the aim has been to leave out all matter not of practical value, to condense as far as possible, and to produce a concise work adapted to the wants of those who desire to treat intelligently all rectal affections, no matter what their complications may be. Octavo, 411 pages; illustrated by 215 engravings; muslin, $3.00 net.

Rontgen Rays in Medical Work By David Walsh, M.D., Edin., Physician Western Skin Hospisal, London. Late Hon. Sec. Röntgen Society, London. THIRD EDITION. In this little volume the aim has been to deal with the present practical scope of the Röntgen Rays, so far as physicians and surgeons are concerned. In the third edition the subject in all its branches, mechanical, medical and surgical, has been brought up to date. Octavo, 330 pages, illustrated by 32 plates and 79 engravings. Price, muslin, $2.50 net.

ANÆMIA and Some of the Diseases of the Blood-forming Organs and Ductless Glands. By Byron Bramwell, M.D., Edinburgh.
This is a most interesting and practical work from the hand of an acknowledged master of the subject. One volume of 450 pages, 8vo, extra muslin, $3.00 net.

Manual of the Diseases of the Eye For Students and General Practitioners. By Charles H. May, M.D., Chief of Clinic and Instructor in Ophthalmology, College of Physicians and Surgeons, New York. SECOND EDITION. Completely revised and enlarged, and new colored plates added. One volume, 12mo, 410 pages, illustrated by 36 colored figures, on full-page plates, and 275 original illustrations in the text. Extra muslin, price, $2.00 net.

An Index of Symptons As a Clew to Diagnosis. By Ralph Winnington. Revised by Leftwitch, M.D., Late Assistant Physician to the East London Children's Hospital. SECOND EDITION. The physician or surgeon will find the work to be of the greatest practical utility, as it gives all the symptoms of disease arranged as symptoms, with cross references to the diseases concerned, so that the diagnosis of a case is greatly facilitated. One volume, 12mo, of 282 pages, with frontispiece. Extra muslin, $2.00 net.

Kirke's Handbook of Physiology Seventeenth American Editon. Revised by Wm. H. Rockwell, Jr., M.D., and Charles L. Dana, A.M., M.D., Professor of Diseases of the Nervous System, Cornell University Medical College, New York, etc. The principal changes in this edition have been made in the chapters relating to physiological chemistry—a branch which has seen important advances during the past two years. The chapter on the blood has also been revised. Octavo, 865 pages, with upwards of 500 illustrations, including many in colors. Price, muslin, $3.00 net; sheep, $3.75 net.

Death and Sudden Death

By P. Brouardel, Paris. Translated by F. Lucas Benham, M.D., B.S., and M.D., Adelaide. SECOND REVISED EDITION. This is a work of most uncommon interest and value—treating of the phenomena of death in its many aspects and the varied forms of sudden death. One volume of 343 pages, octavo. Price, muslin, $3.00 net.

Manual of Antenatal Pathology and Hygiene

By J. W. Ballantyne, M.D., F.R.C.P.E., F.R.S. (Edin.). This volume is devoted to Fœtal Physiology and Pathology, while Teratology and Morbid Heredity will be treated in a companion volume. The author has had unusual facilities for studying this subject, having personally examined three hundred specimens of fœtal disease and deformity, embracing almost all the leading types of antenatal morbid states. Large octavo volume, printed upon coated paper, and superbly illustrated by 14 chromo lithographic plates, numerous fine half-tone and other illustrations in the text. Extra muslin, price, $5.00 net.

HERNIA

Its Etiology, Symptoms and Treatment. By W. McAdam Eccles, M.S., F.R.C.S., London. Second Edition.

All recent scientific advances are given, the author's wide experience is drawn upon, and a complete, clear and practical manual of treatment is presented. One volume, 8vo, 250 pages, illustrated by 118 engravings. Muslin, $2.50 net.

Clinical Lectures on Neurasthenia

By Thomas D. Savill, M.D., London. Second Edition.

The text of this edition has been amplified by the addition of fresh illustrative cases and treatment. One volume, 186 pages. Muslin, $1.50 net.

The Medical Record Visiting List for 1903

This standard article is offered not only in the regular style, at a moderate price, but also in sumptuous bindings suitable for gifts, or for the use of the most fastidious. 30 patients a week, $1.25; 60 patients a week, $1.50 net; circular of special lists sent on application.

Medical Student's Manual of Chemistry

By R. A. Witthaus, A.M., M.D., Professor of Chemistry, Physics and Toxicology in Cornell University Medical College, New York. FIFTH EDITION. The work is divided into two parts. In the first part the principles of Chemical Science are treated of, as well as so much of Chemical Physics as is absolutely requisite to a proper understanding of that which follows. The second part treats of Special Chemistry. Unlike most textbooks on the subject, the elements are classed, not in metals and metalloids—a classification as arbitrary as unscientific—but in classes and groups according to their chemical characters. Octavo volume, 689 pages, illustrated. Muslin, $3.50 net.

NEW PUBLICATIONS
OF
THE ROBERT CLARKE CO.
CINCINNATI, O.

Colonel John Gunby of the Maryland Line. Being Some Account of His Contributions to American Liberty. By A. A. GUNBY. 12mo. Cloth. Illustrated. Price, net, $1.00; delivered, $1.10.

The research devoted to this tactical subject is bound to attract all impartial students of military history.

The tenor and spirit of the book will be found most wholesome, broad and patriotic, and while depicting some of the most thrilling scenes of American history, it finds its best excuse for being written in the simple story of Freedom, which cannot be told too often nor dwelt on too long in these expanding times of our country.

The Cause of the Glacial Period. Being a Résumé and Discussion of the Current Theories to Account for the Phenomena of the Drift; with a New Theory by the Author. By H. L. TRUE, M.D. 12mo. Cloth. Illustrated. Price, net, $1.00; delivered, $1.12.

The Glacial Epoch remains the puzzle of the geologist; and so long as our knowledge of the causes that produced it continues so vague and unsatisfactory, any theory throwing new light on the subject should receive a candid investigation from scientists generally. Inasmuch as no satisfactory solution of the problem has, as yet, been furnished, the mystery surrounding the glacial period should insure a friendly attitude toward any publication purporting to give a further elucidation of the subject.

Shakspeare's Art; or, Studies on the Master Builder of Ideal Characters. By JAMES H. COTTER, A.M. 12mo. Cloth. Illustrated. Price, net, $1.00; delivered, $1.10.

Shakspeare's Art; or, Studies on the Master Builder of Ideal Characters, by James H. Cotter, A.M., is a valuable addition to Shakespearean literature. Its style is florid and its periods poetical, yet rich in depth of thought, as well as in wealth of imagery. The author proves himself to be keen of observation as well as a philosopher, and his deductions show him to be a deep student and an ardent admirer of the Bard of Avon.

Modern Horsemanship. An Original Method of Teaching the Art by Means of Pictures from Life. By EDWARD L. ANDERSON. Fifth Edition, Revised and Enlarged. 8vo. Cloth. Illustrated by 60 Fine Photogravures. Price, net, $3.00.

"A master of his subject."—The Field, London.

"The best new work on riding, in the English language."—Sport Zeitung, Vienna.

The Memoirs and Writings of the Late Very Reverend James F. Callaghan, D.D. Compiled by His Sister, EMILY A. CALLAGHAN. 8vo. Cloth. Price, net, $2.00; delivered, $2.20.

The first part of the book contains the memoirs and letters from several prelates. The second part all the sermons and lectures that were found after his death. The third part contains the best articles written by him as editorials for the Catholic Telegraph. Among these are the articles on Papal Infallibility, Galileo, the answer to Ingersoll on the Bible, and the letters written from various parts of Europe, in 1880, whose graphic and beautiful descriptions of places and churches won the admiration of the readers of the Catholic Telegraph.

LOYAL TRAITORS

A Story of Friendship for the Filipinos

By RAYMOND L. BRIDGMAN

Author of "Ten Years of Massachusetts," "Biennial Elections," "The Master Idea," etc.

The story is one of quick and absorbing action from the first page to the last. If in its dramatic representations of deeds in the Philippines the story is, in a sense, a terrible story, it is terrible only as history is terrible; it is terrible only as "A Tale of Two Cities" or "Uncle Tom's Cabin" is terrible. With both of these stories it will perhaps not fail to be classed. Cloth, handsome cover design in gold, 310 pages, $1.00 net. (By mail, $1.12.)

HEALTH AND A DAY. By LEWIS G. JANES. Cloth, $1.00 net.

NEW MODES OF THOUGHT. By C. T. STOCKWELL. Cloth, $1.00 net.

The Annual

American Catalogue

CUMULATED

1900—1902

THE ANNUAL AMERICAN CATALOGUE, Cumulated, 1900-1902, is now in preparation, and will include in one alphabet the short-title lists of the books of 1900, 1901 and 1902, giving information of the books recorded by author, title, subject and series. This cumulation is to continue annually until a five-yearly volume of "The American Catalogue" in its new shape is reached. This form of catalogue has been generally accepted as a desirable, practical working tool for the trade, supplementing as it will do, from year to year, the last issue of the five-yearly "American Catalogue," without the need of consulting several alphabets in several volumes.

Bibliographic Publications.

For all American books as they appear, take THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY; for an hour's glance each month at the important books and magazine papers, take LITERARY NEWS; for library matters take THE LIBRARY JOURNAL; for magazine articles in general, consult THE ANNUAL LITERARY INDEX; for books in print or issued of late years, see THE AMERICAN and ANNUAL CATALOGUES, also, the index to the PUBLISHERS' TRADE LIST ANNUAL for 1902 and the Index thereto.

THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY. Established in 1872, with which was incorporated the American Literary Gazette and Publishers' Circular (established in 1852.) Recognized as the representative of the publishing and bookselling interests in the United States. Contains full weekly record of American publications, with monthly cumulative indexes, etc. Subscription, $3.00 a year, postpaid; to foreign countries, postpaid, $4.00 a year; single numbers, 10 cents, postpaid. Special Numbers: Educational Number, in leatherette, 50 cents; Christmas Number, 25 cents; the numbers containing the three, six and nine months' Cumulated Lists, 25 cents each. Extra copies of the Annual Summary Number, to subscribers only, $1.00.

THE LIBRARY JOURNAL. Official Organ of the American Library Association. Chiefly devoted to library economy and bibliography. Established in 1876. Published monthly. Subscription, $5.00 a year, postpaid; single numbers, 50 cents. Price to Europe, or other countries in the Union, 20s a year; single numbers, 2s. (LITERARY NEWS is sent free to subscribers of THE LIBRARY JOURNAL.) Teachers may be interested in the "School Number" published in the spring of each year.

GENERAL INDEX TO THE LIBRARY JOURNAL, vols. 1–22, 1876–1897. Arranged to serve as an index to succeeding volumes or for other sources of professional information. 4°, in sheets, or paper binding, $2.50; A. L. A. half leather, $3.00.

LITERARY NEWS. A Monthly Journal of Current Literature. Contains the freshest news concerning books and authors; lists of new publications; reviews and critical comments; characteristic extracts; sketches and anecdotes of authors; bibliographical references; prominent topics of the magazines; portraits of authors, and illustrations from the newest books, etc., etc. Subscription, $1.00 a year, postpaid; single numbers, 10 cents.

THE AMERICAN CATALOGUE of books in print and for sale July 1, 1876, compiled under the direction of F. LEYPOLDT, and its supplements, 1876–84, 1884–90, 1890–95, and 1895–1900, compiled under the editorial direction of R. R. BOWKER, aims to present all the bibliographical features of the books in the American market, arranged in the first part alphabetically by both authors and titles, and in the second part alphabetically by subjects.

The Catalogue and its supplementary volumes form the only approximately complete guide in existence to the American books of the day, so arranged as to make reference easy from whatever direction the inquiry may come, whether from that of the author, or the title, or the subject. It not only furnishes the desired information about any particular book of which the consulter is in search, but shows what others there are by the same author or on the same subject in which he is interested. To the bookseller, therefore, it is valuable both in filling orders and in stimulating business; to the librarian, in supplying gaps and proportioning his collection; and to all who are practically concerned with books, in furnishing information by a convenient method.

The author-and-title volume of the 1876 volume is out of print. A limited number of the subject volume may be had in half leather binding at $15.

The volumes covering the periods 1876–84 and 1884–90 is also out of print.

——, 1890–95, 4°, hf. mor., $15.

——, 1895–1900, 4°, hf. mor., $15.

THE ANNUAL AMERICAN CATALOGUE, Cumulated, containing yearly the monthly lists in THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY, cumulated, giving in one alphabet, by author, title, and subject, information of the books issued during the years covered by the latest volume. It also contains a directory of publishers with full street addresses. The current volume covering 1900 to 1902, inclusive. 8vo, cloth, net, $3.00.

THE PUBLISHERS' TRADE LIST ANNUAL. Contains: The latest catalogues of upwards of 200 American publishers, contributed by themselves and arranged alphabetically by the firm-names and smaller lists at the end of the volume. These lists, all bound in one volume arranged alphabetically for ready reference, with marginal index, guiding the finger at once to the right letter, present in their combination so convenient and time-saving a working-tool as to make it indispensable to every one who has any interest in the purchase or sale of books. Large 8vo, cloth, without index, net, $2.00; with index, 2 v., 8°, net, $7.00.

INDEX TO THE PUBLISHERS' TRADE LIST ANNUAL, 1902, contains an index, by author, title and subject catchword to the lists of the 246 publishers represented in the Catalogues volume of the PUBLISHERS' TRADE LIST ANNUAL for 1902, furnishing by means of 140,000 entries, ready reference to the books of the leading publishers in print July 1, 1902, and to forthcoming books of which they could furnish information in August of that year. 1 v., 8°, cl., net, $5.00.

THE ANNUAL LITERARY INDEX, including Periodicals, American and English; Essays, Book-Chapters, etc., with Author-Index, Bibliographies, Necrology and Index to Dates of Principal Events. Edited, with the coöperation of members of the American Library Association and of The Library Journal staff, by W. I. FLETCHER and R. R. BOWKER. 8°, cloth, $3.50.

THE AMERICAN EDUCATIONAL CATALOGUE. Contains a price-list of all the text-books in use in the United States, arranged alphabetically by author's or editor's name, and a detailed subject-index, referring from each specific subject to authors of books on that subject. 8vo, leatherette, 50 cents.

THE ENGLISH CATALOGUE [Annual] giving full titles classified under author and subject in one strict alphabet, with particulars of the size, price, month of publication, and name of publisher of the books issued in Great Britain and Ireland, in the calendar year, being a continuation of the "London" and "British" Catalogues. [London: Sampson Low, Marston & Co.] 8vo, cloth, net, $1.50. THE ENGLISH CATALOGUE and THE ANNUAL AMERICAN CATALOGUE bound in one volume, cloth, $4.50.

PUBLICATIONS OF SOCIETIES: a provisional list of the publications of American scientific, literary, and other societies from their organization. Compiled under the editorial direction of R. R. BOWKER. Schedules over 1100 societies issuing publications, and gives title-entries of all their publications, as far as data could be obtained from the societies and from libraries. 4°, paper, $2.50; cloth, $3.00.

STATE PUBLICATIONS: a provisional list of the official publications of the several States of the United States from their organization. Compiled under the editorial direction of R. R. BOWKER. Pt. 1: New England States—Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut. Pt. 2: Middle Atlantic and Central States—New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Michigan and Wisconsin. 4°. (For complete work, $5.00.)

THE PROFESSION OF BOOKSELLING: a handbook of practical hints for the apprentice and bookseller. By A. GROWOLL, managing editor of THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY, and author of "A Bookseller's Library," "Book-trade Bibliography in the United States in the XIXth Century," etc. Pts. 1 and 2. 8°, bds., each, $2.00. (Concluding part in preparation.)
